STATE TAXES

Conservatives and Dems Oppose Proposed Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — New York State's proposed program of increased spending and taxation, a target of varied opposition, continued to pick up opponents over the weekend.

One Democratic legislative leader said he would fight it, the only Democrat in statewide office disclaimed any part in formulating it, and the Conservative party came out for trimming it.

State Sen. Joseph Zaretzki, the Senate minority leader, characterized as "wholly unnecessary to meet the proposed budget expenditures" Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's proposed 20 per cent surcharge on state income taxes, and increases in gasoline and liquor taxes.

He said he will oppose those increases, but said there were some areas of the proposed $500 million in state tax increases that he'd support. Among these was an increase in business taxes.

He scored the Rockefeller proposals on grounds that New York City would provide most of the increase but would receive only $65 million from higher taxes.

The executive director of the state's Conservatives called Sunday for a five per cent cut in state spending and a return of all programs to pay-as-you-go financing.

James D. Griffin, the executive director, in laying out the party's legislative program, said also that it supported school decentralization in New York City.

Griffin's program also called for year-round state spending audits; elimination of all joint legislative committees; freeze on pupil aid until school districts are required by law to show how they spend their money; and one-year residency requirement for relief applicants.

Arthur Levitt, the state comptroller, said that Rockefeller alone was responsible for the tax proposals made to meet the governor's $5.5 billion budget.

New York's top financial officer said those who "cast me in the role of one who had recommended the tax increase are wrong."

"I have done nothing of the kind," Levitt said. "It is the governor who bears the responsibility for it. It is his indifference to costs that has brought about the necessity."

Heart Transplant:

Kasperak's Experience Could Be Aid in Future

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Kidney failure, liver failure and other complications killed Mike Kasperak on the 15th day after his diseased heart was replaced. But doctors believe his experience will help future patients.

Kasperak, 54, died at 1:43 a.m. Sunday.

"We think that we are in the process of making observations of tremendous importance to other possible (heart) recipients and to the medical community as well," Dr. Norman E. Shumway told newsmen afterward at the Stanford University Medical Center.

Heart Functioned Well
Kasperak's substitute heart, taken from the body of Mrs. Virginia White, 43, after she succumbed to a stroke, apparently functioned well to the time of his death.

Dr. Shumway, who headed the transplant team, said that "what should be emphasized is that during this time he survived a fantastic galaxy of complications which we have seen before in other kinds of cardiac patients, but never in such profusion."

"We think that because of his normal cardiac action, he was able to survive first of all renal (kidney) failure, then hepatic or liver failure and then following this three major operations, all of which were done, of course, during the time that his circulation was moved by a transplanted heart," Dr. Shumway said.

"We feel that any one of these complications I mentioned would have been lethal had it not been for the cardiac transplant."

One of Britain's leading heart specialists, Dr. Donald Ross, commented in London: "It is not surprising that Mr. Kasperak died. But I am amazed that they have been able to keep him alive so long."

Ross, chief surgeon at the National Heart Hospital, said complications of internal bleeding alone would account for Kasperak's death—as for many other deaths following open heart surgery.

Mrs. Ferne Kasperak, herself a heart patient, received seda-tion after Dr. Shumway told her of her husband's death. She was secluded on her own doctor's orders.

Kasperak, a retired steelworker who lived at nearby East Palo Alto, was a terminal case when he entered the hospital Jan. 5 with a heart three times its normal size and failing, doctors said.

They told him of the dangers of the new transplant operation, but recommended it as his only hope. He agreed to it and became the world's fourth patient to get another person's heart.

Only the third now lives, Dr. Philip Blaiberg of Cape Town, South Africa, where the first such operation was performed by Dr. Christiaan Barnard last Dec. 3.

Kasperak came through the transplant operation satisfacto-riety and seemed for a few days to be heading for recovery. Then the complications arose from pre-existing disease of the liver and lung.

Internal bleeding was discovered the Monday after the operation, but doctors checked it with blood transfusions. In the next two days Kasperak sat briefly on the edge of his bed and wrote his wife a note saying, "I love you."

Koreans:

SEOUL (AP) — About 30 North Koreans invaded Seoul Sunday night in a bold attempt to break into the presidential palace and assassinate high government officials. Six Reds and six South Koreans were killed by noon today.

Police searched for more than 20 North Koreans still at large. It was the first major clash inside the capital since the 1953 Korean armistice.

Fire at Police Chief
The fighting began when the Communists, in civilian garb, fatally machine-gunned Police Chief Choi Kyoo-shik when he challenged them less than a mile from the mansion of President Chung Hee Park.

The Reds then hurled grenades at four passenger buses, killing three civilians and injuring two others. Two more civilians were killed in subsequent shootings.

Police quickly deployed in the general area, killed five Communist and captured one. Another Communist who was captured was killed when a grenade he was carrying went off during interrogation at police headquarters.

Three South Korean Army divisions and the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division guarding the western sector of the Korean front were alerted to help hunt the Communists in mountainous areas north of Seoul.

A dusk to dawn curfew was proclaimed in three counties and the city of Uijongbu, north of Seoul, to help block escape routes. Seoul's midnight-to-4 a.m. curfew was extended two hours to start at 10 p.m.

U.S. Army helicopters were mobilized to help the search. A joint anti-spoilage operations headquarters was quickly activated to direct the search. It said the infiltrators were North Korean Army officers led by a captain.

It added that captured articles confirmed they were assigned to assassinate South Korean government leaders and attack major government agencies.

Ellenville Protest:

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.
An hour-long silent vigil for peace protesting the war in Vietnam was conducted Saturday afternoon in front of the post office in Liberty Square, Ellenville, without incident.

Between 40 and 50 men and women, most of them residents of Ellenville and including a clergyman and a school teacher, paraded in a circle along the sidewalk from 12 noon until 1 p.m. when they left quietly.

Observers said the demonstration attracted less attention than a larger march conducted during the Christmas holiday in Ellenville. Both marches were sponsored by the Citizens' Committee for Peace in Ellenville.

At least three placards were carried by marchers during the uneventful vigil. One placard read—"Support Our Troops in Vietnam—Bring Them Home." Another bore the words, "Peace or Pieces?" and a third read "More than 125,000 American troops—casualties to date."

Police said they observed the marchers during the hour they paraded and there was no trouble or complaints from residents.

Mrs. Nat Mantell, a member of the executive committee of the Citizens' Committee for Peace in Ellenville, said the march Saturday afternoon was "open to the public." She noted that the vigil in December was conducted by local residents.

"We welcome all to join us in our discussions," Mrs. Mantell said. She confirmed a report that the Rev. Raymond Harrison, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church in Ellenville, took part in the quiet demonstration. Father Harrison was reported out of town today and was not available for comment on reports from other news media.

Future demonstrations are planned, according to the executive committee member.

The decision to hold the second peace vigil within a month to express publicly their disapproval of the United States intervention in the Vietnam war, was agreed upon at the last peace committee meeting to which the public was invited. No citizens other than committee members attended that session.

A peace spokesman reported at that meeting that neither Congressman Joseph V. Resnick of Ellenville, Congressman John Dow or the Ellenville Board of Education has yet replied to the committee's request to participate in a public forum scheduled at Ellenville High School on March 2.

Mrs. Mantell said Donald Decker, a member of the Ellenville Central School faculty, is chairman of the Citizens Committee. She said the organization has a slate of officers. She said regular meetings of the group are held and they are open to the public.

The U.S. Defense Department said the ships visited Japan to give their crews shore leave and to pick up supplies. The daily riots several times delayed the start of liberty hours for the sailors, but eventually they got into the city, and no attacks were made on them personally.

About 700 students armed with sticks and rocks battled Japanese police Sunday at the bridge about 500 yards from the U.S. base.

Cease-Fire in Viet:

The Holiday Lulls May Be on Way Out

SAIGON (AP) — Holiday cease-fires seem on their way to becoming another casualty of the Vietnam war.

The South Vietnamese government announced Sunday it was cutting 12 hours off the 48-hour truce it had ordered next week for Tet, the lunar new year festival. It was one more example of the growing distaste with which the Saigon government and its allies view the traditional pauses in the fighting.

Will Be Shortest
The allied truce will be the shortest cease-fire of the war for Tet.

Military officials always have opposed the truces on the ground that the Communists invariably use the pause in the fighting—and especially the halt in the aerial bombing—to shove more men, arms and supplies onto the supply trails to South Vietnam.

The military men also point out that each cease-fire has been followed by major battles, proof that the Communists use the cease-fire periods to resupply and redeploy their forces.

Some large American operations also have come immediately after cease-fires, leading some observers to draw the same conclusion about the allies.

The allied military commands also say the number of incidents during the cease-fires has become so great that during the New Year truce there were more casualties than during a normal two-day period.

But the military men have had to bow to political considerations. There was always hope that perhaps the truces could be extended, and that peace talks might develop.

Now even the civilian officials and diplomats who used to support the cease-fires as political necessities refer to them as meaningless.

"They have been cease-fires in name only," one American official said recently.

Another said the curtailment of the Tet truce was "in keeping with the principle that you give the enemy as little opportunity to infiltrate men and arms into South Vietnam as possible." The truce period was apparently cut because captured Communist documents showed the enemy planned a massive effort at Tet to strengthen his forces, especially in the northern areas of South Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese government, always the hawk when it came to cease-fires, was even more reluctant late last year after the Viet Cong announced in November it would observe three-day cease-fires at Christmas and New Year's, and a seven-day halt in the fighting at Tet.

A Grudging Decision
Saigon took a full month to make up its mind on how long its cease-fires would be. It grudgingly decided on 24-hour truces at Christmas and at New Year's and 48 hours at Tet.

The New Year's truce was extended to 36 hours after President Johnson met with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and Pope Paul VI. Johnson apparently urged an extension of the truce in answer to an appeal from the Pope, and this was the reason given for the extension.

Christian Unity Observance Held

Over 300 clergy and laity joined last night at St. Mary's Church, Kingston, in the fourth annual local observance of the Christian Unity Octave, a week of prayer established in 1968, for the unity of all Christians.

Presiding at the service were the Most Rev. Bishop James E. Vicar of Ulster and Sullivan Counties, the Rev. William A. Studwell, president of the local Council of Churches and Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph G. McIntyre, pastor of the host church.

Leading the group prayers and singing were the Rev. Edwin C. Coon, Fair Street Reformed Church; Floyd Ellsworth, Council of Churches, the Rev. David C. Gaise, Evangelical Church of the Redeemer; the Rev. Nicholas Katsoulis, St. George Greek Orthodox Church; Joseph Saccoman, Knights of Columbus; the Rev. James LeBar, St. Joseph's Catholic Church; the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, St. John's Episcopal Church; and the Rev. William A. Studwell, Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

The speaker was the Rev. Roger Mazerath, SA, director of the unity office of the Graymoor Friars of Garrison. Father Mazerath indicated that the modern approach to Christian unity was through a recognition of the brotherhood of man and he capsulized his thoughts in a little story of a soldier who sought his soul, which he could not see, then God, who eluded him, then his brother in whom he found all three.

An unusual aspect of this prayer service was the bringing together of St. John's Episcopal Church, through Father Shellenberger, and the Graymoor Friars, through Father Mazerath, as it was through these groups that the Church Unity Octave had its beginnings.

In early years Father Paul Francis Watson had been rector of St. John's Church and from it he founded the present Holy Cross Church in Kingston. When Father Watson left Kingston, worried over the lack of unity amongst Christians, he founded the Society of the Atonement, commonly known as the Graymoor Friars. In 1908 he began the Church Unity Octave, a period of prayer from Jan. 18 through Jan. 25 each year, which now has united world-wide Christian sponsorship. Father Watson, who died in 1940, is well remembered by many Kingstonsians.

The choral group of St. Mary's School, under the direction of Sister Mary Jane sang two numbers at the start of the program and the Rev. Russell Anderson of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer gave the radio commentary. After the services the assembly joined in a social hour served by St. Mary's Mothers' Club in the school. Attending both the service and the social hour were clergy and sisters from many other Christian churches and groups of the area. A very apparent feeling expressed by so many was how good it was for Christians of various denominations to gather together under one roof to find brotherhood through praying and singing together, the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly said today.

Several participants in the fight reportedly fled before troopers arrived in response to telephone calls from area residents.

Troopers said the charges were lodged against George Wilber, 22 and Harry Wilber, 21, of Shady, and Mark Howland, 19, of Lake Hill. Arraigned before Town of Olive Justice Frank C. Carle the trio received adjournments. Bail was fixed at $100 each.

The complaints were made by Walter Dirks, 20, of 17 Greenkill Avenue, Kingston, authorities said. Minor injuries were sustained by those involved in the incident.

Troopers David Watchel and A. J. Scarselli investigated the complaints. Investigation will be continued.

A hit-and-run case was reported near the scene of the fight, according to troopers, who said Ralph Brueckner, 18, of West Hurley, was arrested on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident by Trooper Scarselli.

According to investigators from the Kingston sub-station of state police, Brueckner was driving his car east on Route 28 when the vehicle allegedly hit Barry Wilber, 18, of Shady, who was standing on the pavement.

Wilber, troopers said, was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering injuries described by state police as a skull fracture.

Brueckner was taken before Judge Carle by Trooper Scarselli. A plea of innocent was entered and bail was fixed at $100 pending a hearing at a later date.

Christian Unity Observance Held

Over 300 clergy and laity joined last night at St. Mary's Church, Kingston, in the fourth annual local observance of the Christian Unity Octave, a week of prayer established in 1960 for the unity of all Christians.

Presiding at the service were the Most Rev. Bishop James E. Vicar of Ulster and Sullivan Counties, the Rev. William A. Studwell, president of the local Council of Churches and Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph G. McIntyre, pastor of the host church.

Leading the group prayers and singing were the Rev. Edwin C. Coon, Fair Street Reformed Church; Floyd Ellsworth, Council of Churches, the Rev. David C. Gaise, Evangelical Church of the Redeemer; the Rev. Nicholas Katsoulis, St. George Greek Orthodox Church; Joseph Saccoman, Knights of Columbus; the Rev. James LeBar, St. Joseph's Catholic Church; the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, St. John's Episcopal Church and the Rev. William A. Studwell, Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

The speaker was the Rev. Roger Mazerath, SA, director of the unity office of the Graymoor Friars of Garrison. Father Mazerath indicated that the modern approach to Christian unity was through a recognition of the brotherhood of man and he capsulized his thoughts in a little story of a soldier who sought his soul, which he could not see, then God, who eluded him, then his brother in whom he found all three.

An unusual aspect of this prayer service was the bringing together of St. John's Episcopal Church, through Father Shellenberger and the Graymoor Friars, through Father Mazerath, as it was through these groups that the Church Unity Octave had its beginnings.

In early years Father Paul Francis Watson had been rector of St. John's Church and from it he founded the present Holy Cross Church in Kingston. When Father Watson left Kingston, worried over the lack of unity amongst Christians, he founded the Society of the Attonement, commonly known as the Graymoor Friars. In 1908 he began the Church Unity Octave, a period of

City Budget Vote Tonight By Aldermen

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Kingston Common Council will meet tonight to vote on a record city budget pegged at $83.66 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation. Last year the rate was $70.53.

The rate for the city alone is $54.46, up $3.97 from last year's $50.49. The county rate is $29.20, up $9.16 from last year's $20.04.

This current budget was drawn up by the Common Council Finance Ways and Means Committee, chaired by Peter Mancuso (D-Eighth Ward). Other members include John Naccarato (R-Third Ward) and Joseph Conlin (D-11th Ward).

Two From Ray
There have been two budgets previous to this one, both drawn up by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan. In all three budgets the county tax rate has remained the same. Garraghan's first budget, submitted for a public hearing Dec. 28, called for a total of $85.62, with a city rate of $56.42. That was cut by the mayor and he submitted a budget to the finance committee consisting of a total rate of $83.98. The city's share was cut to $54.82.

The total city budget is down from last year's $4,120,630 by some $55,000. However, the amount to be raised by taxation this year is up almost $600,000 over last year. Estimated revenues are down by more than $265,000 this year although the total assessed valuation is up almost $700,000.

Major Increases
Major increases this year were recorded in the salaries of the police and fire departments. The fire department is up $83,519 from last year's $403,851. The policemen are over the half-million dollar mark at $501,615 this year. This, compared to last year's $416,613, is a rise of $85,002. The rate for the fire department might have been higher but Garraghan rejected a $400 across the board increase and budgeted $350 for both departments.

Garraghan, in cutting the fire department, also cut his own department. He did not take the $5,000 salary increase for himself approved by the Common Council last year.

Salary increases have been penciled in for City Clerk Thomas R. Lyle, Assessor Mathias

Richardson, Treasurer Stanley Petro Jr. and Judge Hubert A. Richter, as well as most city employees. Garraghan, taking into account the cost of living increase, has used five per cent as a yardstick in his pay raise increases.

Counts on Passage
Garraghan is evidently counting on Common Council passage of a Department of Water request for a $642,968 bond issue to raise the level of Cooper Lake. He has included the water department's request as an anticipated bond. This brings the city's bonded indebtedness to $2,972,976, compared to last year's $2,881,152.

Would Be Sharp Reversal
If Garraghan does get Democratic support on his budget it will be a sharp reversal from last year's when Republicans teamed with Democrats to pass the budget.

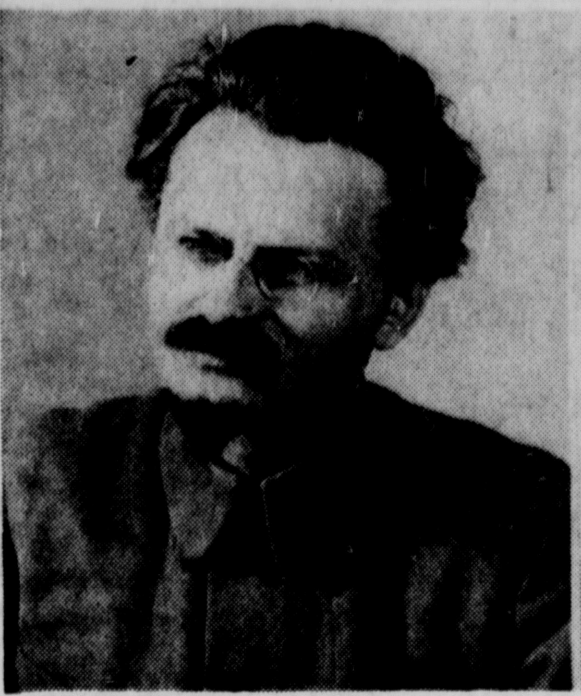

As Mancuso puts it, "We don't expect the Republicans to accept a $13.33 increase, even though $9.16 is mandated by the county. It should be a lively meeting."

Cattle Killed In Barn Fire

VALLEY FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Twenty-five head of cattle were killed and 4,000 bales of hay and milking machinery destroyed in a barn fire today in this community northeast of Troy.

Volunteer firemen from Valley Falls, Johnsonville and Hooick Falls fought the blaze on the William Langenbach farm. Another 25 cattle were led to safety before the fire destroyed the barn.

There were no injuries reported. The cause of the fire was not determined.

COMING TRUE — Marxist Leon Trotsky's prediction that the United States would inherit the British Empire is beginning to come true, according to Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt. Trotsky is shown (L) in a 1921 photo; Aiken, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said British withdrawal from its bases overseas will force the United States to fill the vacuum to protect its own investments. Aiken, in making the statement, recalled a 1940 prediction made by Trotsky shortly before his assassination. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Last Roll Call for Egyptians Before the Return to Freedom

ATLIT PRISON CAMP, Israel (AP) — Several hundred Egyptian prisoners, clad in thick army uniforms but shivering in icy rain, lined up in this bleak, windswept camp in central Israel Sunday night for their last roll call before freedom.

They stood quietly in rows as Israeli guards counted them onto 19 buses which drove them through the night to the Suez Canal 275 miles away, across the sands where they were captured by Israeli forces in the June war.

Some Grinned
Some grinned at the thought of home. Some held hands. Some were bewildered. Others were sullen.

They were almost the last of the Arab prisoners held in Israel. Since Jan. 12, about 4,500 Egyptians have been sent home. The few remaining go on Tuesday.

"Hamsa (five)!" barked a guard. Five men ran forward.

Slate Nature Walk

The John Burroughs Natural History Society has slated a nature walk Saturday, Jan. 27, to trace signs of winter.

The group will gather at 2 p.m. in the waiting room at the Gate House, entrance to Mohonk Lake, Mountain Rest Road, between New Paltz and High Falls.

The Convincing Tax Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials face the task of convincing an economy-minded Congress that a proposed spending increase should not stand in the way of a tax hike.

Top officials are expected to argue today—when the House Ways and Means Committee once more takes up the tax charge before the tax-writing committee.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., has let it be known in advance, however, that the committee does not intend to decide on taxes until it has had time to study thoroughly the budget for coming fiscal year beginning July 1. The spending program is slated to be presented to Congress a week from today.

Would Be Sharp Reversal

If Garraghan does get Democratic support on his budget it will be a sharp reversal from last year's when Republicans teamed with Democrats to pass the budget. Bowles Journey

Chester Bowles might just as well have stayed in India for all the good he accomplished on his Mission to Cambodia. Prior to the White House decision to send our Ambassador to India to talk to Prince Sihanouk, the latter made clear that he did not want American troops in his domain. And that's how it still stood, when Mr. Bowles left Cambodia. Sihanouk still doesn't want us in his country. Surely, Mr. Bowles didn't make such a highly publicized journey expecting to hear what we already know. The evidence shows more defeat than victory for American diplomacy.

Mr. Bowles' post-visit statement—perhaps it was prepared for him by the U.S. State Department—was a masterpiece of meaningless words. He said we will do everything to avoid acts of aggression against Cambodia, then practically in the same breath said we could give no ironclad guarantees there would be no "hot pursuit" of Viet Cong who take refuge in the prince's country. The whole discussion was started because the VCs are ducking into Cambodia when U.S. troops are after them, and what gives anyone, particularly our State Department, the idea that they will do any differently, despite the visit of Chester Bowles?

The Viet Cong will continue to use sanctuaries wherever they can find them, and Cambodia seems the handiest. So it's still largely a matter for U.S. policy to decide whether they'll be chased across Prince Sihanouk's border. If it is decided to give "hot pursuit," the prince will be greatly put out, and more importantly, Red China and Russia may have something to say about our violating his borders. They won't miss a bet to weigh in, just for its nuisance value if nothing else.

The Bowles mission is in keeping with the bumbling Johnson Administration policy and thinking in Southeast Asia. First, we signalled our punch to Sihanouk and the world, so that he was good and ready for us. Then we sent our envoy in such a flurry of fanfare, that any good he might have accomplished in a quiet way was completely destroyed.

Computerized Schooling

Educators throughout the country will watch closely the beginning of the largest computerized school program on March 15, providing individual drill in the three R's to 6,000 pupils in 15 elementary schools in New York. It will be a wholesale test of whether hundreds of thousands of disadvantaged children, who now leave school as functional illiterates, can succeed in learning math, reading and spelling.

The computer system will give each pupil up to 10 times as much drill in the basic subjects as he would ordinarily receive in normal school classes. Each day, the computer will grind out an instant report card the pupil can take home to his parents to enlist their enthusiasm, if he is doing well, or their cooperation, if he needs a push from home.

The system has been tried successfully on a smaller scale in the schools at Palo Alto, Calif. The New York test is supported by a $2.5 million Federal grant. Its success is counted on to educate the disadvantaged at least so that they can be trained for jobs in today's economy. Eventually, it is expected to make a big contribution in reducing unemployment and poverty. From that viewpoint, the $2.5 million grant may be the best possible investment in elementary and secondary education.

Repression Again

Though Stalin will have been dead 15 years March 3 next, his repression of freedom and press remains despite the boasting of democracy and freedom of his successors. It is still a crime to write and speak against the regime, a crime against the state, though the object is to expand favorable world opinion about the state.

The conviction of three writers and a typist for their writings brought out one courageous deed among the undoubtedly thousands which have not come to light. Pavel M. Litvinov, grandson of that Maxim Litvinov who as Soviet foreign commissar secured U.S. recognition of the Soviet Union, and Mrs. Yuli M. Daniel, wife of a writer serving a five-year sentence for his writing, denounced the trial as "a wild mockery of justice." They demanded release of the defendants and dismissal of the judge and others responsible for this "shameful witch hunt."

Litvinov and Mrs. Daniel called the trial "a stain on the honor of our state and on the conscience of everyone of us." They called it "no better than the celebrated trials of the 1930s (the Stalin era) which involved us in so much shame and so much blood that we have still not recovered from them."

What more can be added to this grim indictment made at the site of the horror? Except to ask that we be not duped by Soviet pretensions to freedom of speech and of press and claims of democracy for all.

"A Transplant Might be Worth a Try Here, Too!"

David Lawrence Says Crime and Federal Action Big Issue

WASHINGTON—The members of both houses of Congress gave one sentence in President Johnson's address on Wednesday night an outburst of prolonged applause which exceeded any other manifestation of approval during the entire speech. The sentence was as follows:

"We, at every level of the government—state, local, federal—know that the American people have had enough of rising crime and lawlessness in this country."

But when Mr. Johnson outlined what he intended to do about the problem, there was no display of enthusiasm. For it was evident that he was not proposing anything new and that he was not explaining why the federal government has not prosecuted those who have conspired to produce violence in various cities throughout the United States.

The President said the American people "recognize that law enforcement is first the duty of local police and local government." He then declared that the people also "recognize that the national government should help the cities and the states in their war on crime to the full extent of its resources and its constitutional authority." As he added a final phrase—"and this we shall do"—everybody expected to hear thereafter some specific new proposals. Instead, the President went on to explain that this "does not mean a national police force," and that what he had in mind was "help and financial support—to develop state and local master plans to combat crime, to provide better training and better pay for police, and to bring the most advanced technology to the war on crime in every city and county in America."

This was plainly an effort to transfer full responsibility to the states and cities, and to place the federal government in an auxiliary role but with no direct relationship to the problem of arresting and punishing criminals.

The President's promise that the national government would help within "its constitutional authority" naturally has attracted attention. A careful examination of the Federal Statutes shows that the national government has not hesitated to exercise its constitutional authority "to the full extent" in prohibiting racial discrimination in public schools and restaurants. It has also used its powers to punish those who cross state lines or utilize "interstate commerce" to further unlawful activities, such as gambling, narcotics trade, arson and other crimes, including embezzlement, stealing automobiles, mail fraud and bank robberies.

The federal government, under the civil-rights laws, can prosecute conspiracies to violate the constitutional rights of civil-rights workers and other persons. The federal government also has the broad power to suppress insurrections of any kind and to punish anyone who advocates acts designed to overthrow the government by force.

Yet the Johnson Administration has not prosecuted a single one of the conspirators who have openly announced that they would lead "demonstrations" even if these resulted in violence. The states and cities themselves can only arrest persons for crimes committed within their own jurisdiction. The federal government alone has the constitutional authority to deal with states and plot disturbances or any other violation of law.

Representative William C. Cramer, Republican of Florida, in a speech to the House on Thursday, said: "I was shocked at what amounts to backhanded encouragement to the riot leaders who can now carry forth on their plans to burn down America without fear of federal penalties. The clear implication is that the President doesn't want a federal anti-riot law, for his message was devoid of any proposals for criminal laws to help solve this serious problem."

Many other members of Congress are dubious about the President's abstract statements concerning federal help in combating crime. This is likely to be the big issue, if not the biggest one, in the forthcoming national campaign.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

There was a little inn on the right side of the road. It was half home, half public building. The roof was gabled and the snow clung like thick stiff cream. The lady was hospitable. She had a room. It wasn't much, no television or radio, but I could have it for five dollars.

Dinner would be prompt at six. I looked at the oak logs burning in the fireplace, and the dark bark was still on the top side. Three of them made popping noises and sent fireflies up the black sooty chimney into the cold pale sky.

She was stout and wore rimless spectacles and she asked me if I knew Damaris Scott and I said no. The room was small and neat with a hardwood bed, two end tables and a chair. The bed had fluffy blankets across the bottom. The closet had seven wire hangers. There was a hook rug of gray between the door and the bed.

I tightened the red muffler and went for a walk. The road was clear except for a ring of snow. But it was walled on both sides with five feet, like a marble quarry, and it flattened out on top in a blinding whiteness that climbed across the hills toward the black-veined trees.

It was downhill to the river and I approached it eagerly. The lobster boats were high on cradles, looking bigger than they do in the water. The keel-sons were frayed from small encounters with old rocks, and a man stood alone on a fragile dock of gray planks.

I walked up behind him, looking upriver and watching the black water flow broad and smooth and irresistible, coming down from the sheer hills around Jefferson, swelling a little around unseen rocks on its way to the sea. He wore a sweater and a blue mackinaw and a white hat with side panels for his ears, and sun glasses.

He heard the feet on the planks and he turned slowly. "Thanks for coming," he said. There was no gratitude in it. Reproach, maybe. My hands were aching. Downriver the sun looked warm, but it had nothing to offer. The hills on the far side were so clean that the snow spun off in diamond cyclones. A dump truck crept down the thin scar of road, the chains in tinny synchopation, scaring the small birds from an old mound of shellfish.

"Well?" he said. I felt bad. I knew what I had to tell him, but he didn't. I asked him why he wrote to me, and he stared hard through the sun glasses and said: "You know damn well why. Because I trust you. I wrote that in the first letter."

There had been seven. Each more trusting. I told him I had been in and out of the big city, and the prosecutor said no. "No deal," I said. The man was irritated. "What does he mean, no deal? I'm willing to give myself up." You wrote to a stranger—me. I forwarded your offer to the authorities. They said nothing doing. The truck passed and the hillsides lapsed into silence. The cold made the bones in my toes ache. I told him I was sorry. He was sorry now, and he said sorry hell, they'll never find me. I took in a long, long breath and could not look him in the eye. "They're with me," I said.

For a second, the man panicked. Then he saw a man standing at the edge of the bridge, and another behind us on top of a hill. He didn't call me what I was. His mittened hand slapped the side of his corduroy pants again and again, and the lips contorted. Behind the square sunglasses, he was crying.

"The woman died," I said. He nodded. He knew. "She died," I said. "She said it was her fault for asking you to do it." She had been aware of the danger. He had taken the money and in two days she was dead. He took the sunglasses off and wiped his eyes and had trouble getting a kerchief from his hip pocket. "I know you didn't mean to kill her," I said. He put the glasses back on, a small, shrunken person standing in the cold stripped of his dignity.

"Let's go back," I said, and he walked with me, head down, watching his over-shoes crush the window-pane ice on the shore. It was a beautiful day. The sky was like an empty vault in a big cathedral. There was a plume of blue smoke coming from the inn and the stiff wind twisted it like a maypole ribbon. My ribs hungered for the embrace of those logs. My spirits were down.

He had lied to me only once: "Believe me," he said. "I tried hard to be a good doctor."

Drew Pearson Says Johnson-Kennedy Feud Has Political Importance

WASHINGTON—A recent column on the FBI bugging of lobbyist Fred Black's room in the Carlton Hotel illustrated even more than we realized the intensity of the nation's No. 1 personal feud—that between President Johnson and Sen. Robert Kennedy.

The column reported that the FBI had told the President that Bobby Kennedy initiated the tap on Fred Black's suite; that Kennedy had also initiated the investigation of Bobby Baker apparently in an effort to embarrass Johnson; further, that Kennedy had used his own special investigators in part in probing the Baker case.

Following publication of this column, Sen. Kennedy telephoned to say that as Attorney General he had never known about the bugging of Fred Black's rooms until he read about it in the papers and that he had never authorized it. Furthermore, he insisted he had never assigned any personal members of his staff to help in the Baker investigation.

"If I had ordered an investigation of Bobby Baker," said Kennedy, "someone would have written a memorandum to that effect, and there is no such memo."

The Senator said he had no doubt that President Johnson may well believe he had authorized the Baker investigation, but that this did not make it true. He suggested that Nicholas Katzenbach, his former deputy and successor as Attorney General, also had no idea of the wide-scale wire tapping and electronic bugging by the FBI and was amazed when he discovered it. It was Katzenbach who required the FBI to admit in a public statement, through Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall, that it had engaged in wholesale eavesdropping.

What Is Fact? Bobby Kennedy's statement, which we are sure is a sincere one, nevertheless does not get away from the fact that the FBI did, indeed, inform President Johnson that Kennedy initiated the Fred Black eavesdropping. The FBI also told Johnson that Bobby initiated the Baker probe and that he had used his own special investigators on it.

This brings up the highly important question of whether the FBI was telling the truth to the President. Subsequent investigations shows that:

1. No memorandum exists any place in the Justice Department showing that Attorney General Bobby Kennedy authorized the Fred Black wiretap or initiated the Bobby Baker investigation.

2. Present Attorney General Ramsey Clark has so informed the President.

Diametrically conflicting claims coming from very high officials, pose problems which affect the unity of the Democratic party, the status of the FBI in politics, relations between J. Edgar Hoover and the Attorney General, and the election of the next President of the United States. Resolving the feud between LBJ and RFK, on the other hand, could lead to Democratic harmony and might turn the tide of the election.

Here are some of the facts we have uncovered in this investigation:

First, an assistant FBI director made an exhaustive search of FBI files and was unable to find any memorandum signed by Bobby Kennedy authorizing any wiretap whatsoever. He reported this to J. Edgar Hoover.

Subsequently, Attorney General Ramsey Clark informed President Johnson of this fact. Ramsey more or less grew up in the Justice Department. He was a small boy when his father was Assistant Attorney General, then Attorney General. Ramsey served as Assistant Attorney General under Bobby Kennedy and Deputy Attorney General under Nicholas Katzenbach before becoming Attorney General.

Furthermore, Ramsey Clark grew up knowing President Johnson. He was a small boy when the Clark and Johnson families, both coming to Washington from Texas at about the same time, saw each other frequently. He has known the President ever since he was in knee britches. Nevertheless we are inclined to believe that President Johnson believes Hoover rather than his Attorney General regarding Bobby Kennedy's role in the bugging of Fred Black's rooms and the Bobby Baker investigation. The Johnsons used to live across the street from J. Edgar Hoover, just off 30th Place, when Johnson was a young Congressman.

Ever since that time the two men have been extremely close, and Johnson has retained Hoover as FBI Director at the age of 73 despite a law which decrees mandatory retirement of any government official at the age of 70.

It is a fact that previous Attorneys General have not known of the wholesale wiretapping engaged in by Hoover. A White House conference among President Johnson, J. Edgar Hoover and Nicholas Katzenbach, it was revealed for the first time how widespread Hoover's wiretapping had been. Katzenbach expressed his amazement. Shortly thereafter, the courts overturned the conviction of Fred Black for income tax evasion because it had been secured with illegal evidence.

J. Edgar Hoover is reported to have been furious over all this. His disapproval unquestionably contributed to Katzenbach's demotion from Attorney General to Under Secretary of State.

The questions involved in the above tangled skein of events are not only important in regard to the nation's politics, but also in regard to the protection of constitutional rights of privacy. They will be dealt with further in an early column.

Note: Hoover, of course, had general authorization from each Attorney General to engage in wiretapping. Insiders also claim that Kennedy, as Attorney General, was gung-ho about the FBI's eavesdropping and sometimes listened eagerly to the secret tapes.

Henry J. Taylor Says Britain Once Was World's No. 1 Power

By HENRY J. TAYLOR On January 22, 1901, Queen Victoria died, age 82. At 18 she received a crown that had been tarnished by ineptitude and wore it with honor for 63 years in what was by four years the longest reign, and by three days the longest royal life, in British history.

The incredible era's end signaled by this date should remind us vividly what can happen to a nation that is the No. 1 power in the world as we are today.

In only the 31 years between 1870 and 1901 Great Britain acquired 4.7 million square miles of territory; France, 3.6 million; Germany, one million; Belgium, one million—or 77 times Belgium's own size.

One European nation after another, along with Japan, encroached on China. But China herself had been colonizing for 2,500 years—intermarrying with others and making them Chinese. Only some Far East seaports were secure, and today's hard-pressed Hong Kong was Britain's jewel among these, acquired for Victoria from Emperor Tso Kuang on January 20, 1841, in the fourth year of her reign by the Treaty of Chuenpi.

Verdi composed the opera "Aida" for the inauguration of the Suez Canal, the canal that made Africa an island, on November 17, 1869. The French had supplied the money and the man—Ferdinand de Lesseps—for Egyptian Khedive Ismail to Britain's dismay. French Empress Eugenie and de Lesseps were aboard the yacht that led the 50-ship inaugural procession through what is now Nasser's canal but in a deliberate snub Egypt placed the great vessel carrying Victoria's representative far down the line. For, as usual, Britain's unpopularity rose with her prestige—the inevitable effect on us today as the world's No. 1 power.

Lord Beaconsfield (Benjamin Disraeli) ultimately paid $18 million for Ismail's controlling shares of the canal—to gain a route 6,000 miles shorter than the old way around Africa, and it was he who crowned Victoria "Empress of India." But Beaconsfield was what you might call a total diplomat, without strong feelings on most subjects.

Victoria's Lords Palmerston and Gladstone, not Disraeli, made the British Foreign Office and left it at its greatest. It has been gradually declining ever since. This column recently mentioned how, by skillfully applying Britain's balance of power, they even blocked a Franco-Prussian war. German Chancellor Otto von Bismarck had to wait for them to die before he could start the war.

Editor William Thomas Stead of London's vigorous Pall Mall Gazette introduced the "interview" into British—and world—journalism in 1884. The occasion was Gen. Charles (Chinese) Gordon's blast at the government—which meant

Prime Minister William E. Gladstone—on Gordon's return from inspecting the Sudan. Gladstone made comebacks and Margot Asquith said of him: "What a gulf between him and most men!" but he was a man Victoria never could understand.

Lord Salisbury, the English gentleman personified—a Cecil who had behind him the long stability of belonging on top—was called the Hamlet of British diplomacy. Above conventions, he went so far as to refuse as Prime Minister to live in Downing Street, Oxford is said to produce statesmen who distrust great thoughts even if they think them. But Salisbury's prestige with the Queen was unparalleled: he was in audience, the only minister that Victoria ever invited to sit down. He had bad legs.

By June 22, 1897, Victoria's sovereignty extended across a quarter of the entire land surface of the world. The living evidence of this marched in splendid ranks to the thanksgiving service in St. Paul's that inaugurated Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee.

The Empire never seemed so great, nor the future so secure, as on that sun-showered day. But as so often happens when an institution seems at its highest force, actually the process of decay has already set in. As is easy to see, Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee belonged to the twilight, not the noontide, of British security.

Praises Volunteer Firemen Route 5, Box 64AA Saugerties, N. Y. Jan. 18, 1968

Editor, The Freeman: On January 13, at approximately 6:10 p.m., a fire broke out in the basement of our home, which is located on Old Kings Highway, or what is known as the Mt. Marion Road (mailing address—Route 5, Box 64AA, Saugerties). My wife smelled smoke and opened the door to the stairway into the cellar and saw smoke and flame. We left the house and notified the Fire Department. Within ten minutes the volunteer fire department was at the scene. On leaving the house, we were met at the side entrance by Mr. John Kohlund, an off-duty State Trooper who happened to be passing by. He made sure that everyone was out of the house. The first fire truck on the scene was that of the Mt. Marion Company, along with their tank truck. Within two or three minutes, the pumper and tanks from the Ruby Fire House arrived. Within seconds the volunteer firemen had water on the blaze. Through their diligent efforts and at the risk of life and limb, they confined the fire to the basement. Without their help, the house and contents might have been destroyed. The temperature was approximately -2°.

I must commend these volunteer firemen, as they took every precautionary step to minimize damage throughout the rest of the house. Upstairs, the only damage is from smoke and soot and a few small charred spots. The volunteer firemen displayed extreme care in going through the entire house; rolling up the shades, shoving the curtains back, and opening all windows to let smoke out. The volunteer fire department assisted greatly in removing debris for the basement, and helped a lot in cleaning up "the mess." They were also kind enough to post four men at the scene after the trucks left. An emergency generator powered flood lights which permitted other personnel to make temporary repairs to the electric, water and heating systems, thus eliminating any freeze-up.

Central Hudson was very kind and very prompt in answering the call for emergency service. Again, through the diligence and the kind efforts of the Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Department and my neighbors and the public in general, my wife and I were able to remain in our own home and were in bed for what we hoped for a night's sleep at approximately 1 a.m. Sunday morning; it was not necessary for Mrs. O'Bryan or myself to evacuate from our own home for any period of time. I am quite sure while we have many critics in reference to volunteer fire departments, that if anyone were through what we did, they would only be too happy to do anything possible to enhance the position of any volunteer fire department in their area.

I know of no way other than just to say "thanks" to the Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Department, my neighbors, and all those who assisted and were very solicitous at a very critical time.

MR. & MRS. ROBERT K. O'BRYAN

Representative William C. Cramer, Republican of Florida, in a speech to the House on Thursday, said:

"I was shocked at what amounts to backhanded encouragement to the riot leaders who can now carry forth on their plans to burn down America without fear of federal penalties. The clear implication is that the President doesn't want a federal anti-riot law, for his message was devoid of any proposals for criminal laws to help solve this serious problem."

Many other members of Congress are dubious about the President's abstract statements concerning federal help in combating crime. This is likely to be the big issue, if not the biggest one, in the forthcoming national campaign.

Drew Pearson Says Johnson-Kennedy Feud Has Political Importance

WASHINGTON—A recent column on the FBI bugging of lobbyist Fred Black's room in the Carlton Hotel illustrated even more than we realized the intensity of the nation's No. 1 personal feud—that between President Johnson and Sen. Robert Kennedy.

The column reported that the FBI had told the President that Bobby Kennedy initiated the tap on Fred Black's suite; that Kennedy had also initiated the investigation of Bobby Baker apparently in an effort to embarrass Johnson; further, that Kennedy had used his own special investigators in part in probing the Baker case.

Following publication of this column, Sen. Kennedy telephoned to say that as Attorney General he had never known about the bugging of Fred Black's rooms until he read about it in the papers and that he had never authorized it. Furthermore, he insisted he had never assigned any personal members of his staff to help in the Baker investigation.

"If I had ordered an investigation of Bobby Baker," said Kennedy, "someone would have written a memorandum to that effect, and there is no such memo."

The Senator said he had no doubt that President Johnson may well believe he had authorized the Baker investigation, but that this did not make it true. He suggested that Nicholas Katzenbach, his former deputy and successor as Attorney General, also had no idea of the wide-scale wire tapping and electronic bugging by the FBI and was amazed when he discovered it. It was Katzenbach who required the FBI to admit in a public statement, through Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall, that it had engaged in wholesale eavesdropping.

What Is Fact?

Bobby Kennedy's statement, which we are sure is a sincere one, nevertheless does not get away from the fact that the FBI did, indeed, inform President Johnson that Kennedy initiated the Fred Black eavesdropping. The FBI also told Johnson that Bobby initiated the Baker probe and that he had used his own special investigators on it.

This brings up the highly important question of whether the FBI was telling the truth to the President. Subsequent investigations shows that:

1. No memorandum exists any place in the Justice Department showing that Attorney General Bobby Kennedy authorized the Fred Black wiretap or initiated the Bobby Baker investigation.

2. Present Attorney General Ramsey Clark has so informed the President.

Diametrically conflicting claims coming from very high officials, pose problems which affect the unity of the Democratic party, the status of the FBI in politics, relations between J. Edgar Hoover and the Attorney General, and the election of the next President of the United States. Resolving the feud between LBJ and RFK, on the other hand, could lead to Democratic harmony and might turn the tide of the election.

Here are some of the facts we have uncovered in this investigation:

First, an assistant FBI director made an exhaustive search of FBI files and was unable to find any memorandum signed by Bobby Kennedy authorizing any wiretap whatsoever. He reported this to J. Edgar Hoover.

Subsequently, Attorney General Ramsey Clark informed President Johnson of this fact. Ramsey more or less grew up in the Justice Department. He was a small boy when his father was Assistant Attorney General, then Attorney General. Ramsey served as Assistant Attorney General under Bobby Kennedy and Deputy Attorney General under Nicholas Katzenbach before becoming Attorney General.

Furthermore, Ramsey Clark grew up knowing President Johnson. He was a small boy when the Clark and Johnson families, both coming to Washington from Texas at about the same time, saw each other frequently. He has known the President ever since he was in knee britches.

Nevertheless we are inclined to believe that President Johnson believes Hoover rather than his Attorney General regarding Bobby Kennedy's role in the bugging of Fred Black's rooms and the Bobby Baker investigation. The Johnsons used to live across the street from J. Edgar Hoover, just off 30th Place, when Johnson was a young Congressman.

Ever since that time the two men have been extremely close, and Johnson has retained Hoover as FBI Director at the age of 73 despite a law which decrees mandatory retirement of any government official at the age of 70.

It is a fact that previous Attorneys General have not known of the wholesale wiretapping engaged in by Hoover. At a White House conference among President Johnson, J. Edgar Hoover and Nicholas Katzenbach, it was revealed for the first time how widespread Hoover's wiretapping had been. Katzenbach expressed his amazement. Shortly thereafter, the courts overturned the conviction of Fred Black for income tax evasion because it had been secured with illegal evidence.

J. Edgar Hoover is reported to have been furious over all this. His disapproval unquestionably contributed to Katzenbach's demotion from Attorney General to Under Secretary of State.

The questions involved in the above tangled skein of events are not only important in regard to the nation's politics, but also in regard to the protection of constitutional rights of privacy. They will be dealt with further in an early column.

Note: Hoover, of course, had general authorization from each Attorney General to engage in wiretapping. Insiders also claim that Kennedy, as Attorney General, was gung-ho about the FBI's eavesdropping and sometimes listened eagerly to the secret tapes.

Henry J. Taylor Says Britain Once Was World's No. 1 Power

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

On January 22, 1901, Queen Victoria died, age 82. At 18 she received a crown that had been tarnished by ineptitude and wore it with honor for 63 years in what was by far the longest reign, and by three days the longest royal life, in British history.

The incredible era's end signaled by this date should remind us vividly what can happen to a nation that is the No. 1 power in the world as we are today.

In only the 31 years between 1870 and 1901 Great Britain acquired 4.7 million square miles of territory; France, 3.6 million; Germany, one million; Belgium, one million—or 77 times Belgium's own size.

One European nation after another, along with Japan, encroached on China. But China herself had been colonizing for 2,500 years—intermarrying with others and making them Chinese. Only some Far East seaports were secure, and today's hard-pressed Hong Kong was Britain's jewel among these, acquired for Victoria from Emperor Tso Kuang on January 20, 1841, in the fourth year of her reign by the Treaty of Chuenpi.

Verdi composed the opera "Aida" for the inauguration of the Suez Canal, the canal that made Africa an island, on November 17, 1869. The French had supplied the money and the man—Ferdinand de Lesseps—for Egyptian Khedive Ismail to Britain's dismay. French Empress Eugenie and de Lesseps were aboard the yacht that led the 50-ship inaugural procession through what is now Nasser's canal but in a deliberate snub Egypt placed the great vessel carrying Victoria's representative far down the line. For, as usual, Britain's unpopularity rose with her prestige—the inevitable effect on us today as the world's No. 1 power.

Lord Beaconsfield (Benjamin Disraeli) ultimately paid $18 million for Ismail's controlling shares of the canal—to gain a route 6,000 miles shorter than the old way around Africa, and it was he who crowned Victoria "Empress of India." But Beaconsfield was what you might call a total diplomat, without strong feelings on most subjects.

Victoria's Lords Palmerston and Clarendon, not Disraeli, made the British Foreign Office and left it at its greatest. It has been gradually declining ever since. This column recently mentioned how, by skillfully applying Britain's balance of power, they even blocked a Franco-Prussian war. German Chancellor Otto von Bismarck had to wait for them to die before he could start the war.

Editor William Thomas Stead of London's vigorous Pall Mall Gazette introduced the "interview" into British—and world—journalism in 1884. The occasion was Gen. Charles (Chinese) Gordon's blast at the government—which meant

Prime Minister William E. Gladstone—on Gordon's return from inspecting the Sudan. Gladstone made comebacks and Margot Asquith said of him: "What a gulf between him and most men," but he was a man Victoria never could understand.

Lord Salisbury, the English gentleman personified—a Cecil who had behind him the long stability of belonging on top—was called the Hamlet of British diplomacy. Above conventions, he went so far as to refuse as Prime Minister to live in Downing Street, Oxford is said to produce statesmen who distrust great thoughts even if they think them. But Salisbury's prestige with the Queen was unparalleled; he was in audience, the only minister that Victoria ever invited to sit down. He had bad legs.

By June 22, 1897, Victoria's sovereignty extended across a quarter of the entire land surface of the world. The living evidence of this marched in splendid ranks to the thanksgiving service in St. Paul's that inaugurated Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee.

The Empire never seemed so great, nor the future so secure, as on that sun-showered day. But as so often happens when an institution seems at its highest force, actually the process of decay has already set in. As is easy to see, Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee belonged to the twilight, not the noontide, of British security.

Praises Volunteer Firemen

Route 5, Box 64AA
Saugerties, N. Y.
Jan. 18, 1968

Editor, The Freeman:

On January 13, at approximately 6:10 p.m., a fire broke out in the basement of our home, which is located on Old Kings Highway, or what is known as the Mt. Marion Road (mailing address—Route 5, Box 64AA, Saugerties). My wife smelled smoke and opened the door to the stairway into the cellar and saw smoke and flame. We left the house and notified the Fire Department. Within ten minutes the volunteer fire department was at the scene. On leaving the house, we were met at the side entrance by Mr. John Kohlund, an off-duty State Trooper who happened to be passing by. He made sure that everyone was out of the house. The first fire truck on the scene was that of the Mt. Marion Company, along with their tank truck. Within two or three minutes, the pumper and tanks from the Ruby Fire House arrived. Within seconds the volunteer firemen had water on the blaze. Through their diligent efforts and at the risk of life and limb, they confined the fire to the basement. Without their help, the house and contents might have been destroyed. The temperature was approximately -2°.

I must commend these volunteer firemen, as they took every precautionary step to minimize damage throughout the rest of the house. Upstairs, the only damage was from smoke and soot, and a few small charred spots. A volunteer fireman displayed extreme care in going through the entire house; rolling up the shades, shoving the curtains back, and opening all windows to let smoke out. The volunteer fire department assisted greatly in removing debris for the basement, and helped a lot in cleaning up "the mess." They were also kind enough to post four men at the scene after the trucks left. An emergency generator powered flood lights which permitted other personnel to make temporary repairs to the electric, water and heating systems, thus eliminating any freeze-up.

Central Hudson was very kind and very prompt in answering the call for emergency service. Again, through the diligence and the kind efforts of the Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Department and my neighbors and the public in general, my wife and I were able to remain in our own home and were in bed for what we hoped for a night's sleep at approximately 1 a.m. Sunday morning; it was not necessary for Mrs. O'Bryan or myself to evacuate from our own home for any period of time. I am quite sure while we have many critics in reference to volunteer fire departments, that if anyone went through what we did, they would only be too happy to do anything possible to enhance the position of any volunteer fire department in their area.

I know of no way other than just to say "thanks" to the Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Department, my neighbors, and all those who assisted and were very solicitous at a very critical time.

Liberal Intellectuals, Their Double Standard

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Foreign News Analyst
NEW YORK (NEA)—The selective indignation of some liberal intellectuals in the United States and Europe is another demonstration of their double standard of morality.

Nowhere is this more evident than in their loud protests against the imprisonment of Regis Debray in Bolivia and their silence about the tragic fate of Huber Matos in Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Debray is a 28-year-old Frenchman born to wealth and privilege who became the apostle of Communist guerrilla warfare. He achieved dubious fame with a little book, "Revolution in the Revolution," in which he said, among other things, that "the establishment of military rather than political centers of insurrection" in Latin America is "decisive for the future."

Even Reds who take their cue from Moscow, are too tame for this pampered young Frenchman. He wants his "capitalist" opponents destroyed and not just subverted.

Debray's books are reportedly favored reading by Fidel Castro. It is also the "revolutionary guidebook" of the extremist New Left and assorted Black Power advocates in the United States.

Last fall Debray was sentenced by a Bolivian military court to 30 years in prison because of his participation in a guerrilla band led by Che Guevara, Castro's top lieutenant. Guevara was killed by the Bolivian armed forces but the young Frenchman escaped with his life.

The original intention of the Bolivians was to shoot Debray. What right, they asked, did idle son of the French bourgeoisie have to sow chaos in their country and kill defenseless and innocent peasants in the name of his mythical revolution?

Ironically, it was the intervention of the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency—the same CIA which is the favorite whipping boy of the intellectuals—that saved Debray's life.

But even his imprisonment has drawn pleas of clemency from hundreds of international figures, including French President De Gaulle and the Archbishop of Paris. Especially vocal in their protests were American-hating Lord Bertrand Russell, France's Jean-Paul Sartre and other liberal intellectuals.

Yet, true to their principle of selective indignation and a double standard of morality, these intellectuals never petitioned Castro to liberate Huber Matos. They never uttered a word of protest against his unjust imprisonment.

A humble and gentle man, Matos, now 48, was revered almost as a saint by ordinary Cubans when this writer was in Havana in 1959.

He was a schoolteacher when he left the classroom to fight against Batista. After the revolution, he was appointed by his "friend" Fidel Castro as military governor of the Camaguey Province.

But glory and power did not interest Matos. He wanted freedom and a better life for his people. When he realized that Castro was selling out the Cuban people to communism, he broke with him in a letter dated Oct. 19, 1959.

Two days later, Castro personally arrested Matos. He was convicted for counter-revolutionary activity and sentenced to 20 years in prison.

For nine years, Matos who, unlike Debray, is guilty of no crime, has been in Castro's jails. According to a petition to the United Nations by Mrs. Matos, who managed to escape to the United States, her husband has been subjected to "inhuman treatment" and denied medical aid in prison.

Bolivia's President Rene Barrientos Orta recently offered to exchange Debray for Matos, whom he described as a "great teacher who did a great deal for the Cuban peasants."

But some of the world's leading liberal intellectuals, who just took part in one of Castro's "cultural" congresses, are still silent about Matos.

New Type of Foreign Aid Loans Would Help U.S.

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) —

The gold drain raises some serious questions about the way in which the United States gives foreign aid.

The United States has been generous when other nations were in trouble. But some of the now-prosperous countries we aided heavily in the past have refused to offer aid in our time of need.

It will do us no good, however, to complain about ingratitude. Complaints are not likely to change the attitude, say, of Charles de Gaulle.

It will do no good either to say a pox on foreign aid. The fact that the Soviet Union, France, Communist China and Nationalist China, Israel and a number of other countries have copied the U.S. lead in foreign aid seems to be proof of the effectiveness of giving.

What's needed is a new formula for providing assistance.

This reporter would like to make a suggestion.

All aid, of course, is partly through gifts and partly by loans. Gifts are made when American negotiators believe it would be next to impossible for the country receiving aid to make repayment in a reasonable time in the future without endangering that nation's stability.

But suppose these gifts were eliminated and a new type of loan were substituted.

This loan would, by agreement, bear no interest and call for no capital repayment during the period the country receiving aid was in economic distress.

However, the treaty would provide that when the per capita Gross National Product of the country being aided reached an agreed-on level, modest repayments of capital and interest would begin.

Each step-up of the per capita Gross National Product would call for a parallel increase in principal and interest payments.

Provision could be made for payments to be made in the currency of the country being aided during periods that country, through prosperous, was in foreign-exchange difficulties.

These special loans would be written under the supervision of an international agency, such as the World Bank, which would then be responsible for collection of the debt. Using an international agency for collections would tend to lessen hard feelings when payment on old debts was being solicited.

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain. In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H®. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Gone is an era of Volkswagendom. Sniff. And in its place?

A Volkswagen you can drive all over town without shifting.

Only on the highway do you shift. Once. (This is an economy move. Which, after all, is still the name of the game.)

The automatic stick shift is an option: you pay a little more.

But you do a little less.

Eight Vols Overcome

$150,000 Dutchess Fire

Eight volunteer firemen suffered smoke inhalation Sunday night while assisting at the scene of a $150,000 fire that erupted in a room of staff headquarters at Greer School, Hope Farm, in the Dutchess County community of Union Vale.

Firemen from Union Vale and Millbrook were dispatched to the school grounds shortly after 8:40 p. m., and on arrival they found flames sweeping through apartment No. 12 occupied by Clifford Sullivan, a staff member.

Fire spread rapidly through other parts of the two-story frame building despite efforts of the volunteer fire-fighters from the two local departments.

According to Chief Investigator Charles Borchers of the Dutchess County sheriff's department, Sullivan apparently fell asleep while smoking and the fire broke out. Another staff member, Harold Westerhoff, detected smoke and traced it to Sullivan's apartment. Borchers said the two men made unsuccessful attempts to extinguish the flames but the fire burned out of control and firemen were summoned.

The building, which contains 12 apartments occupied by staff members of the school is one of several structures on the school property located just outside Millbrook. Other tenants were forced to evacuate their apartments and after the flames were quelled, they were

Ford's Theater Opens; Lincoln Was Shot There

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ford's Theater has reopened for dramatic presentations more than a century after President Abraham Lincoln was shot fatally there while viewing a play.

The historic theater where Lincoln was assassinated April 14, 1865 has been restored to its original condition through a three-year, $2.7 million National Park Service project.

The theater's rededication Sunday ended a century during which it was first padlocked after Lincoln's death and later used as an office building, storehouse and museum.

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall told the 800 persons invited to the ceremony that Park Service officials "are pleased to rededicate this building as a place for entertainment and pleasure—the purpose for which it was originally intended."

The theater has been a Park Service museum since 1933. A new museum with a new modern facility on the site of the current building is being planned.

YMCA Schedules Fund Kickoff Dinner Feb. 5

FRANK H. REIS, N. LeVan Haver, YMCA Building Fund Chairman, announced today that Monday, Feb. 5, would be the kickoff dinner of the YMCA fund.

"Although this dinner has been combined with the 'Y's' annual meeting in recent years," Haver said, "this year, due to the campaign program, the annual report will be held off until a future Board meeting. It is our intention at this meeting to acquaint all our friends and campaign workers with what has been accomplished to date and what may be expected of them in the future."

Frank H. Reis is chairman of the dinner, which will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, and he will be assisted by City Judge Hubert Richter in planning for the occasion.

"A dynamic speaker has been obtained," Reis said, "who, along with Haver, will doubtless serve to inspire those present to new heights in the thoughtful approach to providing Kingston with a YMCA that truly reflects the vitality of our growing area."

An overflow attendance is expected, and tickets may be obtained by contacting the Y's executive director, Robert Stubbs, at the YMCA.

The YMCA, one of the 13 member agencies of the Ulster County Community Chest, has announced its intention of raising $1,860,000 to provide Kingston with a new modern facility on the site of the current building at the intersection of Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue.

Included in the new facility will be a four-story physical building, connected to a social and administrative wing in a separate unit.

Resume Negotiations At State GM Plant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negotiations aimed at ending a 4-day-old strike at one Western New York plant of the General Motors Corp. were resumed today. Meanwhile, employees at a second facility considered a proposed contract and those at a third worked under a ratified pact.

The Chevrolet Foundry in Tonawanda, north of Buffalo, remained closed by the walkout of 2,600 members of the United Auto Workers Union, and a UAW official was pessimistic about a quick settlement.

"At the moment, the possibility of a solution looks dim," Thomas Natchuras, an international representative for the union, said.

The key issue still to be resolved by the negotiators was a union demand that the foundry workers be given five minutes to wash up before their meal break and another five before the end of their shift, he added.

The negotiators, faced by a strike deadline of last Friday, were unable to agree on terms for a local contract to supplement the national GM-UAW pact signed last month.

Both sides have said that 7,800 workers at GM plants in the Buffalo area could be idled within a few days because of a parts shortage if the walkout continues.

Eight Vols Overcome

$150,000 Dutchess Fire

Eight volunteer firemen suffered smoke inhalation Sunday night while assisting at the scene of a $150,000 fire that erupted in a room of staff headquarters at Greer School, Hope Farm, in the Dutchess County community of Union Vale.

Firemen from Union Vale and Millbrook were dispatched to the school grounds shortly after 8:40 p. m., and on arrival they found flames sweeping through apartment No. 12 occupied by Clifford Sullivan, a staff member.

Fire spread rapidly through other parts of the two-story frame building despite efforts of the volunteer fire-fighters from the two local departments.

According to Chief Investigator Charles Borchers of the Dutchess County sheriff's department, Sullivan apparently fell asleep while smoking and the fire broke out. Another staff member, Harold Westerhoff, detected smoke and traced it to Sullivan's apartment. Borchers said the two men made unsuccessful attempts to extinguish the flames but the fire burned out of control and firemen were summoned.

The building, which contains 12 apartments occupied by staff members of the school is one of several structures on the school property located just outside Millbrook. Other tenants were forced to evacuate their apartments and after the flames were quelled, they were provided shelter in other buildings.

Ford's Theater Opens; Lincoln Was Shot There

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ford's Theater has reopened for dramatic presentations more than a century after President Abraham Lincoln was shot fatally there while viewing a play.

The historic theater where Lincoln was assassinated April 14, 1865 has been restored to its original condition through a three-year, $2.7 million National Park Service project.

The theater's rededication Sunday ended a century during which it was first padlocked after Lincoln's death and later used as an office building, storehouse and museum.

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall told the 800 persons invited to the ceremony that Park Service officials "are pleased to rededicate this building as a place for entertainment and pleasure—the purpose for which it was originally intended."

The theater has been a Park Service museum since 1933. A new museum has been established in its basement and the room across the street, where Lincoln died, has been restored.

The theater seats 1,700 on the main floor and in two balconies. It has been restored to a gleaming white, with gold trim and red carpets.

The flag-draped box where Lincoln was shot will not be used by audiences at plays to begin Feb. 26. In the box is a replica of the upholstered rocking chair used by the President.

Training Assistance

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission will assist in the training of professional persons concerned with rehabilitating drug addicts through a Bureau of Professional Education.

YMCA Schedules Fund Kickoff Dinner Feb. 5

FRANK H. REIS, N. LeVan Haver, YMCA Building Fund Chairman, announced today that Monday, Feb. 5, would be the kickoff dinner of the YMCA fund.

"Although this dinner has been combined with the 'Y's' annual meeting in recent years," Haver said, "this year, due to the campaign program, the annual report will be held off until a future Board meeting. It is our intention at this meeting to acquaint all our friends and campaign workers with what has been accomplished to date and what may be expected of them in the future."

Frank H. Reis is chairman of the dinner, which will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, and he will be assisted by City Judge Hubert Richter in planning for the occasion.

"A dynamic speaker has been obtained," Reis said, "who, along with Haver, will doubtless serve to inspire those present to new heights in the thoughtful approach to providing Kingston with a YMCA that truly reflects the vitality of our growing area."

An overflow attendance is expected, and tickets may be obtained by contacting the Y's executive director, Robert Stubbs, at the YMCA.

The YMCA, one of the 13 member agencies of the Ulster County Community Chest, has announced its intention of raising $1,860,000 to provide Kingston with a new modern facility on the site of the current property at the intersection of Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue.

Included in the new facility will be a four-story physical building, connected to a social and administrative wing in a separate unit.

Enrichment Program Offered by UCCC

For the second consecutive year, Ulster County Community College will offer an enrichment program for area high school juniors starting in March, President George B. Erbstein announced today.

This opportunity for young people, named the Saturday Collegiate Program, has been designed as a stimulating, intellectual and challenging experience to broaden the students' interests in learning in a variety of fields.

"The success of last year's program warrants the offering of a similar one this year," said President Erbstein. "We hope to provide area high school students at an earlier date an exciting experience in higher education to whet their appetites for further learning on a college level."

Four of the college's divisions will participate in planning three non-credit seminars that will be available for interested high school students. The divisions are business, science and mathematics, social science and humanities.

Each seminar, scheduled for nine Saturdays from 10 a. m. to noon, will be conducted at the new campus of Ulster County Community College at Stone Ridge.

Two evaluations were conducted of last year's Saturday Collegiate Program, and both indicated the value of this type of educational program to the student.

The first evaluation was in the form of an intensive questionnaire completed by the actual participants during the last session. The second evaluation was the analysis of reaction of the participating students and the college faculty to the program by high school teachers, guidance personnel and administration.

Registration for the program will be conducted by members of the guidance departments in all county, public, private and parochial high schools.

Interested students should inquire about registration from their own guidance counselors.

Enrichment Program Offered by UCCC

For the second consecutive year, Ulster County Community College will offer an enrichment program for area high school juniors starting in March, President George B. Erbstein announced today.

This opportunity for young people, named the Saturday Collegiate Program, has been designed as a stimulating, intellectual and challenging experience to broaden the students' interests in learning in a variety of fields.

"The success of last year's program warrants the offering of a similar one this year," said President Erbstein. "We hope to provide area high school students at an earlier date an exciting experience in higher education to whet their appetites for further learning on a college level."

Four of the college's divisions will participate in planning three non-credit seminars that will be available for interested high school students. The divisions are business, science and mathematics, social science and humanities.

Each seminar, scheduled for nine Saturdays from 10 a. m. to noon, will be conducted at the new campus of Ulster County Community College at Stone Ridge.

Two evaluations were conducted of last year's Saturday Collegiate Program, and both indicated the value of this type of educational program to the student.

The first evaluation was in the form of an intensive questionnaire completed by the actual participants during the last session. The second evaluation was the analysis of re-acted high school students. The action of the participating students and the college faculty to the program by high school teachers, guidance personnel and administration.

Registration for the program will be conducted by members of the guidance departments in all county public, private and parochial high schools.

Interested students should inquire about registration from their own guidance counselors.

Dentistry Notes 100 Year Progress

As organized dentistry in New York State begins the year of its 100th anniversary, the spokesman for the Third District Dental Society says that sound natural teeth are now a reality for a lifetime for the millions of people who receive adequate care.

This was once only the dream of dental scientists, according to Dr. Robert F. Rudisill of Latham, president of the Third District which includes this county.

"One hundred years of professional effort now make it possible for us to tell those who follow accepted rules of dental hygiene: You can keep your teeth," he said. "Increasingly preventive care is focusing on periodontal disease, the major cause of tooth loss in adults. This disease which attacks the gums and bone supporting the teeth, often begins in the teens. Among the causes are improper toothbrushing, tartar, impacted food particles and infection. Misalignment or uneven wear of the teeth may be contributing factors."

Steps in treatment may include removal of tartar, correction of faulty bite, proper brushing and gum massage, replacement of missing teeth, splinting of loose teeth when advisable and other measures that may be called for by the individual case, the spokesman said. Complete cooperation of the patient in home care is important.

Wants to Slash Suicide Toll

BY ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP)—A successful and seemingly well-adjusted and contented man kills himself without warning and everyone who knows him is shocked.

Why did he do it and could it have been prevented?

The why often differs with the individuals who kill themselves but a Chicago psychologist who has specialized in suicide studies believes much can be done to slash the annual toll of 20,000 or more deaths by self-destruction in this nation.

Dr. Misha S. Zaks, Ph.D., believes he has found a method to detect "suicide signals" in advance. He has developed a questionnaire called the Personal Opinion Inventory. It contains the Suicide Preoccupation Scale.

Zaks claimed his test shows which persons are suicide risks and determines the degree of such tendencies. He said that to his knowledge, his is the first and only copyright psychological test for the detection of suicidal tendencies.

He said many potential suicides are not fully aware of their latent self-destructive tendencies and that the key to prevention is to find them and help them before they act.

Zaks said he feels that suicide prevention centers being set up in various cities are not the answer "because we can't wait until the fire starts if we're going to cut the losses."

A more effective system, he believes, would be to give suicide screening tests in high schools, colleges and universities, the military services and in industry.

"Young people who have suicidal tendencies are still very pliable if properly directed and can change with relative ease," he said.

Zaks believes the number of unsuccessful suicide attempts far outnumber the suicides. He estimates that from two million to five million living Americans have attempted suicide. In giving his Suicide Preoccupation Scale test to some 10,000 people, he reported 3 per cent of them admitted attempting suicide previously.

Zaks is an associate professor in Northwestern University's department of neurology and psychiatry. He also is associate staff clinical psychologist at Chicago Wesley Memorial Hospital.

The Suicide Preoccupation Scale contains only 25 questions. Zaks declined, however, to explain his method in detail. He said this would enable anyone with preknowledge of the test to falsify answers and preclude detection as a high suicide risk.

He said in an interview that an individual signal picked up by the test might signify nothing unusual. However, when a significant number are clustered together—something the Suicide Preoccupation Scale is designed to spot—the risk of suicide increases.

Zaks was assistant director of psychology and research in the Psychiatric Institute of the municipal courts of Chicago from 1958 through 1961.

State of New York Bank Lists Earnings

A. Raymond Atkins, president of the State of New York National Bank, declared, in his annual stockholder's report, that net operating earnings were $425,941, equal to $4.26 per share "or 17 per cent higher than those of 1966."

The bank president said, "This is a new high in both per-share and total dollar earnings for (the) bank, making 1967 the best year in our history."

"Dividend payments to shareholders for the year also reached a record high of $160,000, compared with $145,000 in 1966."

In other areas, the president noted, "During the year we began the use of electronic data processing, which provides our customers with the most modern and economical data processing services available to the banking industry. This service is provided by Bankers Trust Company."

"Our midtown branch, at the corner of Smith Avenue and Grand Street, which commenced business on Dec. 3, 1966, has prospered beyond our expectations."

President Atkins also stated that the bank "is interested in young people and their education as it is in all other people in the community."

"We have participated in the New York State Higher Education Assistance Corporation program since its inception in 1958, and we have made many loans to needy and deserving college students."

"We have outstanding more than 250 such loans totaling approximately $350,000. We are the first financial institution in our area to grant a full scholarship each year to a student attending Ulster County Community College."

A six-year summary included in the report shows that the State of New York National Bank total assets have increased from $27,822,983 at year's end 1962 to $38,984,242 on Dec. 31.

The bank's loans for community needs have kept pace during the same interval by increasing from $15,256,339 to $23,480,955.

Ralph H. Stewart, chairman of the Professional Division of the YMCA Capital Funds Drive, today announced the selection of his co-chairmen. They are as follows: Dr. Milton Grover, Dr. Ted Smalldon, Robert Roder, Dr. Jeremiah Sachs and Francis Vogt.

Stewart, currently president of the YMCA Board of Directors, said "In securing these individuals, we have been most fortunate in bringing into our organization known community leaders, whose desire and determination cannot help but enable us to reach our goal."

The YMCA, one of the 13 member agencies of the Ulster County Community Chest, has announced its intention of raising a brand new complex on their current site at the intersection of Pine Grove Avenue and Broadway.

Chaired by prominent Kington attorney, N. LeVan Haver, the Building Fund will provide activities and to handle the bur-

Two Are Injured In Rt. 209 Mishaps

Two persons were injured and others escaped unhurt as the result of weekend traffic accidents which occurred on Route 209 in the Ellenville area, according to State Police.

Patricia Robisch, 18, of Ellenville, sustained bruises of the right arm and shoulder at 2 a. m. today when her car skidded out of control on Route 209 two miles south of Ellenville, according to Trooper W. E. Hubert. She was treated at Ellenville Community Hospital.

Investigators reported the car was traveling south on the highway when it went off the right shoulder and as the driver turned back to the pavement she over-corrected the vehicle's course and it skidded off the road and overturned into a field.

At 7:55 a. m. today, cars operated by William Seiden, 32, of Ellenville, and Paul Salzer, 39, of Pine Bush, were involved in a rear-end collision on Route 209 about one mile north of Route 55 in Napanoch. Troopers said both vehicles were traveling north when Seiden applied the brakes of his vehicle to avoid an oncoming car and the Salzer sedan was in collision with the rear of the lead car. No injuries were reported by occupants of either vehicle.

Cars driven by Joseph Caruso Jr., 19, of Briggs Highway, Ellenville, and Leo Brooks, 58, of Grahamsville, were in collision at 1 p. m. Sunday on Beaver Dam Road, Ulster Heights. Brooks sustained head and knee injuries and said he would see his own physician. Trooper Hubert said Caruso was traveling south when he applied his brakes and his car skidded into the path of the northbound automobile operated by Brooks.

Zoning Stop-Gap In Marbletown

The second of three public meetings on Marbletown's proposed "interim ordinance" will be held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 24, at 8 p. m. at the Marbletown Elementary School in Stone Ridge.

The ordinance, also called "stop-gap," is conceived as a short-term ban on new construction of commercial buildings or multiple dwellings without the approval of a board of appeals. It is to be in effect only until the final zoning regulations are enacted. Quick action is felt necessary because of the new community college and its effect on land use.

At the last meeting, Clarence Hansen of High Falls, who chaired the hearing, said, "We want to encourage the development of Marbletown. We want to extend invitations to industry, to business, to anyone to come to Marbletown and to settle here. But we also want to be in the position to control the development; we simply want Marbletown to continue to be a nice place to live in."

Hansen will again lead the meeting, while John B. Wilkie, legal consultant, will answer specific questions of law.

At the first meeting an informal vote was taken to show the feelings of those present. Of the 62 that attended, 55 were for the ordinance, 5 were against it, and 2 abstained.

Narcotics Film Now Available At DA's Office

A new film on narcotics, "Fight or Flight" is now available to area organizations from the District Attorney's Office.

District Attorney Joseph P. Torrance said the new 16 millimeter sound-color film runs for 18 minutes and tells the story of four young people, in their own words, of how they became involved in the use of narcotics and the effect that it has had on their lives.

The district attorney stressed that this fine educational film should be seen by all young people and parents in the county. Any church group, school, club, or other organization that wishes to view the film can do so by contacting the district attorney or investigator Thomas F. Mayone at the DA's office.

For the past two years the DA's office has been using a film entitled "Decision," that was loaned through the courtesy of Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club, and this office is grateful for their generosity and cooperation.

Torrance said.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated in heavy trading early Monday, in the first of a series of shortened market sessions.

Resuming its decline of last week, the market gave up more ground, with losses outnumbering gains by a fairly narrow margin.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 3.24 to 877.08.

The major stock exchanges reduced the number of trading hours to four from the regular 5½ to enable brokerage houses to catch up with a logjam of paperwork in their back offices caused by extremely active markets. The shortened sessions will go on for an indefinite period.

Some of the higher-priced glamor stocks were among the losers. Texas Gulf Sulphur and Control Data dropped a couple of points each. Occidental Petroleum more than a point.

A 1-point loss by Du Pont pinpointed a drab performance by blue chips.

Chrysler advanced nearly a point, responding to its report of record sales and earnings in the fourth quarter.

Quotations by Loeb, Rhoades & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange.

Wild Speculation In Stock Market

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "They're speculating wildly," a broker remarked as he watched trading on the American Stock Exchange soar to more than 10 million shares. "My customers are acting as if there were no tomorrow."

Few statements could have been further from the truth, for a very large percentage of stock speculation today results from traders knowing there will be a tomorrow—of inflation and shrinking dollars.

Blame Inflation

This inflation psychology now has a good grip on the thinking of millions of Americans. Taxes and rising living costs are devouring their bank account interest. "Fixed return" investments are shrinking in value.

To offset this shrinkage, investors have been urged to go into stocks, to hedge against inflation by owning securities that rise with the economy. Good advice or poor, it is being given abundantly.

A variety of factors now intensify this inflation psychology and also present the opportunity for it to be exploited.

For one thing, much of the money saved in recent months by average Americans has given them a cushion of confidence. With their excess funds they have stepped into the stock market and hope to duplicate the experience of friends by doubling their money.

At the same time thousands of once cautious investors very likely have become bored, irritated and frustrated as their blue chips vegetate, while young sprouts on the American Exchange soar to the sun. And so they join the crowd.

Whereas some of the solid blue chip stocks on the New York Stock Exchange sell for $100 or more, an American Exchange trader has his choice of about 60 stocks selling for less than $5 and many more for less than $10.

Lending encouragement as well as impact to this churning of stock, some Wall Street informants say, are registered representatives who speculate for their own accounts and encourage customers to do likewise.

Easy Credit

A few other factors also may be involved: No matter what is said for the record, credit for speculating is pretty easy to come by these days. And the suspicion exists among critics that some speculation may be manipulation.

Certainly the huge increase in the number of stockholders is having its impact as well, for the latest figure of 4 million is four times the figure of 20 years ago.

However, it is difficult to believe that amateur or small-investor speculation has suddenly caused the enormous burst of activity.

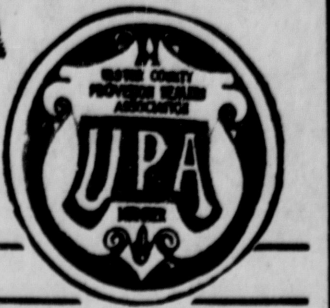

American Exchange average daily volume for all of 1966 was 2.7 million shares. For 1967 volume averaged 4.5 million. For the first two weeks of the new year volume has jumped to 8 million shares.

Some skilled observers of the Wall Street scene believe that much of this activity is, instead, the result of professional speculation by pension and mutual funds, by trust accounts and by college endowments, among other blue chips vegetate, while young

Wild Speculation In Stock Market

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —

"They're speculating wildly," a broker remarked as he watched trading on the American Stock Exchange soar to more than 10 million shares. "My customers are acting as if there were no tomorrow."

Few statements could have been further from the truth, for a very large percentage of stock speculation today results from traders knowing there will be a tomorrow—of inflation and shrinking dollars.

Blame Inflation

This inflation psychology now has a good grip on the thinking of millions of Americans. Taxes and rising living costs are devouring their bank account interest. "Fixed return" investments are shrinking in value.

To offset this shrinkage, investors have been urged to go into stocks, to hedge against inflation by owning securities that rise with the economy. Good advice or poor, it is being given abundantly.

A variety of factors now intensify this inflation psychology and also present the opportunity for it to be exploited.

For one thing, much of the money saved in recent months by average Americans has given them a cushion of confidence. With their excess funds they have stepped into the stock market and hope to duplicate the experience of friends by doubling their money.

At the same time thousands of once cautious investors very likely have become bored, irritated and frustrated as their blue chips vegetate, while young sprouts on the American Exchange soar to the sun. And so they join the crowd.

Whereas some of the solid blue chip stocks on the New York Stock Exchange sell for $100 or more, an American Exchange trader has his choice of about 60 stocks selling for less than $5 and many more for less than $10.

Lending encouragement as well as impact to this churning of stock, some Wall Street informants say, are registered representatives who speculate for their own accounts and encourage customers to do likewise.

Easy Credit

A few other factors also may be involved: No matter what is said for the record, credit for speculating is pretty easy to come by these days. And the suspicion exists among critics that some speculation may be manipulation.

Certainly the huge increase in the number of stockholders is having its impact as well, for the latest figure of 4 million is four times the figure of 20 years ago.

However, it is difficult to believe that amateur or small-investor speculation has suddenly caused the enormous burst of activity.

American Exchange average daily volume for all of 1966 was 2.7 million shares. For 1967 volume averaged 4.5 million. For the first two weeks of the new year volume has jumped to 8 million shares.

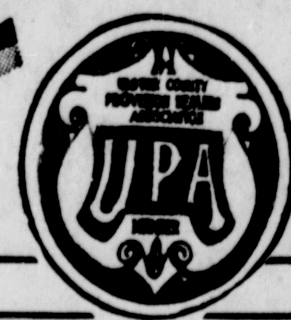

Some skilled observers of the Wall Street scene believe that much of this activity is, instead, the result of professional speculation by pension and mutual funds, by trust accounts and by college endowments, among other blue chips vegetate, while young

Plans Complete For CP Telethon

Telethon chairman, Mrs. Martin Oberkirch Jr. has announced that plans are now completed for the Cerebral Palsy Telethon on Jan. 27 and 28.

Local children appearing early Sunday afternoon for Ulster and Greene Counties include Patricia Schloss, who with her therapist, Jane Broderick, will present a speech demonstration. Patty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schloss, Catskill, has been taught to speak by the use of a new system, Initial Teaching Alphabet used for this purpose and for teaching reading.

Theme child for this year's telethon, Tanya Fitzharris, High Falls will appear with Lawrence Jensen, Kingston. Other Ulster and Greene County children who receive treatment at the center will also be appearing throughout the afternoon.

National stars Ilene Woods and Jack Smith, both previous telethon stars will serve as "emcees."

Billie Jo, of "Petticoat Junction," who in real life is Meredith MacRae, daughter of Gordon and Sheila MacRae, will be one of the entertainers. She recently made her television singing and dancing debut on Art Linkletter's Talent Scouts. Prior to this, she left UCLA to accept a regular role on "My Three Sons" for two years plus working summertimes on stage with Martha Raye in "Wildcat."

Festus of "Gunsmoke" will also appear. Ken Curtis, who portrays Festus, is a former "Son of the Pioneers" and will appear with America's Number 1 Entertaining Western Vocal Group, "The Frontiersmen and Joanie." They will be doing folk, pop, and western tunes as they have in the past in nightclubs and films, on radio and television.

The telethon, live and in color, will originate from the Washington Avenue Armory in Albany. It will begin at 11 o'clock Saturday night and it will run for 19 hours. The show may be seen over Kingston Cablevision Channel 3 or over Channel 10 WTEN, Albany.

The Ulster County Savings Bank, 280 Wall Street, and the Catskill Savings and Loan Association will again donate the use of their telephones so that viewers may call in their pledges. Volunteers will man the phones at these banks throughout the 19 hours of the event. Pictures of the telethon stars will be available at the banks for those who wish them.

United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County provides treatment for all handicapped children from Ulster and Greene Counties. The Telethon is one means by which the yearly budget of the Center is completed.

Romney Names Nixon As Candidate to Beat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney virtually rules out of the race for the Republican presidential nomination anyone but himself and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"I think the contest is basically going to be between the two of us," Romney said Sunday. He discounted the possibility of a late entrant into the GOP sweepstakes could take the prize, saying: "I don't think those who hold back in the hopes that lightning will strike will figure in this. They will be too late."

Romney declined to specify possible late-blooming candidates, but his comments could have applied to one of his major backers—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Urging Rocky
Some Republican moderates have been urging Rockefeller to enter the campaign if Romney is defeated in the early primaries. Thus far the New Yorker has said he'll stick with Romney and can't foresee any possibility that would make him run.

The Gallup Poll reported Sunday that Rockefeller has nearly doubled his popularity among GOP voters since November but that Nixon remains the choice of party members by 42 to 27 per cent in a January sampling.

The same poll showed Romney with 12 per cent and California Gov. Ronald Reagan with 8.

Romney's campaign to win the nation's first primary, New Hampshire's on March 12, was reported off to "an encouraging start" by Leonard W. Hall, his national campaign chairman.

On the other side of the political fence, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota announced plans to carry his Democratic presidential nomination bid into New Hampshire this weekend. He'll campaign in Georgia and Massachusetts earlier in the week.

Meanwhile, some officials of the Americans for Democratic Action—a liberal alliance forged

V.A. Warns Pensioners

All veterans and widows who are receiving non-service connected pension benefits from the Veterans Administration and who received their check are reminded of the necessity of completing the card and returning it before Jan. 31, 1968.

This was stated recently by Rocco A. Scelsi, contact representative-in-charge, VA office, Stuyvesant Plaza, Albany.

If income is not reported before this date, it was noted, pension payments will be suspended and possibly terminated completely.

Income questionnaires are not required from veterans receiving compensation for service-connected disabilities, or widows receiving compensation for service-connected deaths.

If assistance is required in the preparation of these income questionnaires, contact representatives are on duty for this purpose at the Albany office between the hours of 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each week day.

20 years ago—predicted labor factions backing President Johnson may bolt the organization if it endorses McCarthy, a critic of Johnson's war policies.

Within 12 Days
—Nixon told an audience in Dallas Saturday that he'll announce in 12 days whether he will seek the nomination. He also advised Republicans to attack Johnson's policies rather than the President's personality.

—In St. Louis, Reagan denied once more he'll seek the presidency, saying the GOP has many good candidates. "For me," he added, "I like the job I have."

—Romney opened his Wisconsin primary campaign Saturday with a mile-long jog, a round of informal rallies and criticism of Johnson's spending policies. He said America may face the need for an austerity program such as England's unless spending is cut.

—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said in a St. Paul, Minn., speech that he resents people who condemn America as immoral. Humphrey didn't name names, but McCarthy has called U.S. policy in Vietnam "morally unjustified."

—Any hopes candidates in either party had entertained that Congress might provide the financing for their campaigns appear dashed for this year at least. Even backers of a Senate proposal to set up federal financing of presidential contests admit its chances this election year are all but dead.

This Is the 'Y'

Here are some answers to questions that we believe will be frequently asked by many of the citizens of Kingston and Ulster County who are interested in the success of the YMCA Building Fund Campaign. Quite naturally, they are not all inclusive. We do believe that it will give you many valuable facts in addition to the information which is found in the brochure, "Come Grow With Us."

The New Building
8. (1). What are the reasons for locating the new building on the present site?
The present site includes almost three acres of land. This location stands near the crossroads of all the highways of eastern Ulster County and is accessible in less than a half hour's driving time from any eastern Ulster County community. This location will eventually allow room for tennis courts, basketball courts, volleyball, and, at a later date, an outdoor pool.

9. (2). What parking facilities will be provided?
There will be parking facilities which will accommodate from 75 to 100 cars easily accessible from Broadway.

10. (3). When is construction planned?
Present plans call for construction to begin early in the summer of 1968. In the meantime, the commercial properties on the site will be razed early in 1968.

11. (4). Will Y programs be sustained during the period of construction?
The red brick structure facing Broadway will not be razed until the entire new facility is ready for occupancy. At that time, the old building will be razed and the space used for additional parking and beautified by proper landscaping.

12. (5). Will resident facilities be provided?
Resident facilities are not included in the building plans, consistent with modern planning of most YMCAs during the past two decades for communities our size. With its concern for service to the whole family, the Y plans future programs for "golden agers," but housing and resident care are no longer a part of the YMCA policy as the result of facilities provided or contemplated by other organizations and agencies, both public and private.

Measles on Run; All-Time Low
Measles are about to be eliminated. The anti-measles campaign with the new vaccine is beginning to take effect. Reported cases in the U. S. hit an all-time low of 55,000 for the first six months of 1967, a one-third decrease from the previous year. Ulster County's TB and Health Association disclosed today.

Turning to alcoholism, the association said it is the most neglected illness of its type, noting that alcoholism "is no more moral or immoral than tuberculosis or pneumonia or schizophrenia, and our ways of dealing with that illness have been shockingly inadequate."

Studies at the University of Buffalo have revealed damaged chromosomes in the white blood cells of four infants whose mothers had taken LSD during pregnancy, the health association said. This indicates a possibility that use of LSD can cause disease or abnormality in the offspring. The association stated that broken chromosomes are associated with certain serious disease, including leukemia.

Faster Refund
You will get your refund faster, the Internal Revenue Service said today, if you mail your 1967 return direct to the Internal Revenue Service Center, 310 Lowell Street, Andover, Mass.

A pre-addressed label showing the taxpayer's name, address and social security number is included in your tax package. The service stated. Use of this label will expedite the return, the service added.

13. (6). Is the swimming pool regulation size?
Yes. The pool is 37'x75' and provides for six swimming lanes. In addition, a spectators' gallery accommodating 144 persons is provided. This large pool will make possible competitive events and includes adequate shallow water space for swimming instruction and recreation. The new, modern facility meets a great need in the entire county. Adequate pool facilities in the area are non-existent.

14. (7). What are to be the features of the new gym?
The new 69'x95' gym will provide roll-out bleachers for spectators. The court itself will be of regulation size for high school basketball, being 50'x84'. Two cross-courts are possible with this size floor, thus permitting two activities to be simultaneously scheduled when the regulation court is not in use. Separate male and female activities can be scheduled together with a center screen affording privacy when desirable.

15. (8). Will the new facility provide a dining room?
The social activities wing of the building will include a dining room which can be used also for a large meeting hall and general purpose room. This room will accommodate approximately 200 persons.

Health Club
16. (9). What facilities will be provided for Health Club members?
Health Club members will enjoy new and modern facilities which will include a massage room, steam or hot baths, special exercise room, ultraviolet lamps, nap room, and a lounge. In addition, regular member facilities, including the hand ball courts, gym, pool, and body building room, will also be available to Health Club members.

17. (10). Will the Y allow use of the new building by other community groups?
Yes. The policy of the Y has always been to accommodate as many outside groups, organizations and agencies as scheduling of building facilities will permit without disrupting regular Y activities. This same policy will continue when the new building is occupied.

18. (11). Will the new building make possible an increase in membership and new activities?
Space utilization in the new building will permit scheduling many more physical education programs, club activities, leadership meetings, swimming classes, and meets, training programs, health club activities and many other Y services. The obsolescent building and equipment is now an actual deterrent to many who would otherwise use the Y services. Furthermore, the physical plan of the old building is not adequate to present day activities with the result that much of the present space cannot be properly scheduled among boys, girls, and adult members.

19. (12). Will operating income increase after the new building is occupied?
With a new physical education plant including the pool, gym, handball courts and many other features, more youth and adults will want to enjoy the Y's new building, thus increasing Y income. The planned expansion program beginning in 1968 in community areas will also increase membership appreciably.

Hubbard, vice president electro data processing; John Molloy, vice president manager central office; Ellis H. Griffith, vice president and trust officer; Earle H. Foster, vice president and assistant trust officer; William A. Thiel, assistant vice president, manager of Ulster office; Martin Bier and George Kirk, assistant treasurers.

Other officers reappointed were: Kenneth C. Pratt, executive vice president; Walter L. Foster, vice president; Frederic W. Robinson, vice president; Harry E. Miller, William J. Lawrence and William J. Fitzgibbon, assistant vice presidents; George D. Reisenauer, treasurer; Samuel J. Benicase, Richard E. Craig, Edyth M. Phillips, Denis M. On Dec. 31, 1967 the Kingston Trust Company was the largest commercial bank in Ulster County with total assets of over $42,000,000. The Kerhonkson National Bank showed total assets of nearly $8,000,000 on that date.

Approval of the New York State Superintendent of Banks and the Federal Reserve Board are required to complete the merger.

Romney Names Nixon As Candidate to Beat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney virtually rules out of the race for the Republican presidential nomination anyone but himself and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"I think the contest is basically going to be between the two of us," Romney said Sunday.

He discounted the possibility of a late entrant into the GOP sweepstakes could take the prize, saying: "I don't think those who hold back in the hopes that lightning will strike will figure in this. They will be too late."

Romney declined to specify possible late-blooming candidates, but his comments could have applied to one of his major backers—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Urging Rocky

Some Republican moderates have been urging Rockefeller to enter the campaign if Romney is defeated in the early primaries. Thus far the New Yorker has said he'll stick with Romney and can't foresee any possibility that would make him run.

The Gallup Poll reported Sunday that Rockefeller has nearly doubled his popularity among GOP voters since November but that Nixon remains the choice of party members by 42 to 27 per cent in a January sampling.

The same poll showed Romney with 12 per cent and California Gov. Ronald Reagan with 8.

Romney's campaign to win the nation's first primary, New Hampshire's on March 12, was reported off to "an encouraging start" by Leonard W. Hall, his national campaign chairman.

On the other side of the political fence, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota announced plans to carry his Democratic presidential nomination bid into New Hampshire this weekend. He'll campaign in Georgia and Massachusetts earlier in the week.

Meanwhile, some officials of the Americans for Democratic Action—a liberal alliance forged

V.A. Warns Pensioners

All veterans and widows who are receiving non-service connected pension benefits from the Veterans Administration and who received their check are reminded of the necessity of completing the card and returning it before Jan. 31, 1968.

This was stated recently by Rocco A. Scelsi, contact representative-in-charge, VA office, Stuyvesant Plaza, Albany.

If income is not reported before this date, it was noted, pension payments will be suspended and possibly terminated completely.

Income questionnaires are not required from veterans receiving compensation for service-connected disabilities, or widows receiving compensation for service-connected deaths.

If assistance is required in the preparation of these income questionnaires, contact representatives are on duty for this purpose at the Albany office between the hours of 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each week day.

20 years ago—predicted labor factions backing President Johnson may bolt the organization if it endorses McCarthy, a critic of Johnson's war policies. In other political developments:

Within 12 Days

—Nixon told an audience in Dallas Saturday that he'll announce in 12 days whether he will seek the nomination. He also advised Republicans to attack Johnson's policies rather than the President's personality.

—In St. Louis, Reagan denied once more he'll seek the presidency, saying the GOP has many good candidates "For me," he added, "I like the job I have."

—Romney opened his Wisconsin primary campaign Saturday with a mile-long jog, a round of informal rallies and criticism of Johnson's spending policies. He said America may face the need for an austerity program such as England's unless spending is cut.

—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said in a St. Paul, Minn., speech that he resents people who condemn America as immoral. Humphrey didn't name names, but McCarthy has called U.S. policy in Vietnam "morally unjustified."

—Any hopes candidates in either party had entertained that Congress might provide the financing for their campaigns appear dashed for this year at least. Even backers of a Senate proposal to set up federal financing of presidential contests admit its chances this election year are all but dead.

DRUG CITY OPENING — Ulster Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz cuts ribbon formally opening the Drug City store, Ulster Shopping Plaza. He is joined by (L) Ronald Every, president of Ulster Businessmen's Association and branch manager of State of N. Y. National Bank in Ulster; Max Halabuda, district manager of Liggett-Rexall Drug Company; Ken Barnes, store manager and Victor Castellano, regional manager of the Liggett firm. Harris Gally, not shown, is the store's co-manager. The Ulster store, called the "Store of Tomorrow," features a wide variety of merchandise and is open throughout the week. (Ideal Camera photo).

This Is the 'Y'

Here are some answers to questions that we believe will be frequently asked by many of the citizens of Kingston and Ulster County who are interested in the success of the YMCA Building Fund Campaign. Quite naturally, they are not all inclusive. We do believe that it will give you many valuable facts in addition to the information which is found in the brochure, "Come Grow With Us."

The New Building

8 (1). What are the reasons for locating the new building of the present site?

The present site includes almost three acres of land. This location stands near the crossroads of all the highways of eastern Ulster County and is accessible in less than a half hour's driving time from any eastern Ulster County community. This location will eventually allow room for tennis courts, basketball courts, volleyball, and, at a later date, an outdoor pool.

9 (2). What parking facilities will be provided?

There will be parking facilities which will accommodate from 75 to 100 cars easily accessible from Broadway.

10 (3). When is construction planned?

Present plans call for construction to begin early in the summer of 1968. In the meantime exclusive of the Y building, the commercial properties on the site will be razed early in 1968.

11 (4). Will Y programs be sustained during the period of construction?

The red brick structure facing Broadway will not be razed until the entire new facility is ready for occupancy. At that time, the old building will be razed and the space used for additional parking and beautified by proper landscaping.

Resident facilities are not included in the building plans, consistent with modern planning of most YMCAs during the past two decades for communities our size. With its concern for service to the whole family, the Y plans future programs for "golden agers," but housing and resident care are no longer a part of the YMCA policy as the result of facilities provided or contemplated by other organizations and agencies, both public and private.

Pull Out All Stops In Comedy Western

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's going to be like a downhill loco motive," says Dick Martin. "There's never been anything on television like it," adds Dan Rowan.
They were enthusing about their first prime-time television series, "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," which makes its premiere on NBC tonight. With this pair around, the show needs no press agents.
"There are no restrictions on this show, not one," declared Martin—he's the tall, funny one. "We can go as far out as we want and Baby, that's just where we intend to go."

"It won't be anything like the usual kind of variety show," added Rowan—he's the tall, good-looking one. "There will be no flowery introductions, no production numbers, no comedy skits as such."
"The show will be a series of funny bits, virtually none over two minutes and many of them lasting only a few seconds," said Martin. "The only thing that remotely resembles what we're doing is the stuff that Ernie Kovacs did 11-13 years ago."
"The accent will be on visual humor," said Rowan. "Many times we'll go outside the studio for gags. We always thought we would need a studio audience for our comedy, but for this show it's not that important. The gags will be so visual that the studio audience won't be able to catch them all."
You can understand their enthusiasm. Rowan and Martin have been waiting 15 years for this leap into the bigtime. Not that they haven't been working. The pair earned big money from night clubs, concerts and TV guestings. They have headed TV summer shows, but somehow they could never make the leap to a regular season. They admit that the reason may have been that they are hard to categorize.

"It has always been that way," said Rowan. "We used to go into a night club and the boss would say, 'Sorry, boys, I don't need any insurance.' We didn't need like comics, and our act was different from everybody else's."
"When we started out, Martin and Lewis were the big thing, and all the acts were patterned after them. There was the good-looking singer and there was the zany. And because Dean and Jerry sang and danced and faked playing the trumpet and trombone, the act was on versatility."

Gallup Poll Shows Nixon Still Leading

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is the choice of Republican Party members for the presidential nomination, but New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has become increasingly popular among Republican voters, the Gallup Poll reports.
In the sampling made in November, Rockefeller was the choice of 15 per cent, but the latest poll, reported Sunday, gives him 27 per cent.
Nixon remained steady at 42 per cent.
Rockefeller's appeal to independents also improved since Saint John saw the visions described in the Book Revelations during his exile on Patmos, a small island in the Aegean Sea.
The last similar poll. He now is tied 27-27 with Nixon, who had a 28-21 lead in November.
The latest poll shows Michigan Gov. George Romney with 12 per cent and California Gov. Ronald Reagan with 8 per cent. Reagan showed the sharpest drop, having had 13 per cent in the November poll. Romney slid two points from his November figure of 14.

Pull Out All Stops In Comedy Western

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's going to be like a downhill locomotive," says Dick Martin. "There's never been anything on television like it," adds Dan Rowan.

"This show, not one," declared Martin—he's the tall, funny one. "We can go as far out as we want and Baby, that's just where we intend to go."

"It won't be anything like the usual kind of variety show," added Rowan—he's the tall, good-looking one. "There will be no flowery introductions, no production numbers, no comedy skits as such."

"The show will be a series of funny bits, virtually none over two minutes and many of them lasting only a few seconds," said Martin. "The only thing that remotely resembles what we're doing is the stuff that Ernie Kovacs did 11-13 years ago."

"The accent will be on visual humor," said Rowan. "Many times we'll go outside the studio for gags. We always thought we would need a studio audience for our comedy, but for this show it's not that important. The gags will be so visual that the studio audience won't be able to catch them all."

Gallup Poll Shows Nixon Still Leading

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is the choice of Republican Party members for the presidential nomination, but New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has become increasingly popular among Republican voters, the Gallup Poll reports. In the sampling made in November, Rockefeller was the choice of 15 per cent, but the latest poll, reported Sunday, gives him 27 per cent. Nixon remained steady at 42 per cent. Rockefeller's appeal to independents also improved since Saint John saw the visions described in the Book Revelations during his exile on Patmos, a small island in the Aegean Sea. The last similar poll, He now is tied 27-27 with Nixon, who had a 28-21 lead in November. The latest poll shows Michigan Gov. George Romney with 12 per cent and California Gov. Ronald Reagan with 8 per cent. Reagan showed the sharpest drop, having had 13 per cent in the November poll. Romney slid two points from his November figure of 14.

To Ease Abortion Laws

By GERRY McLAUGHLIN

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Efforts to ease the state's rigid law on abortions gathered speed today as Gov. Rockefeller appointed a blue-ribbon committee to study the controversial subject and make recommendations for action this year.

Following up a pledge he made in his annual message to the Legislature this month, Rockefeller reached into the fields of theology, literature, law, medicine and civil rights to pick 10 members of an 11-member citizens' panel.

The eleven member, who will be the chairman, will be chosen soon, the governor's announcement said.

Rockefeller, who has served notice that he expects action by the Legislature this year to revise the abortion law, ordered a thorough review of the existing law.

At the same time, he directed the committee to focus on "the conditions under which abortions should be authorized and the procedure pursuant to which the existence of such conditions should be verified."

Those appointed to the citizens' committee by the governor today are:

—Dr. John C. Bennett, president of Union Theological Seminary.

—Robert M. Bryn, associate professor of criminal law, Fordham Law School.

—Dr. Louis Finkelstein, Chancellor, Jewish Theological Seminary.

—Mrs. Marc Hughes Fisher, director, Region One National Council of Negro Women.

—Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher,

physician specializing in obstetrics and gynecology, and president of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc.

—Dr. John Grant Harrison, physician, former president of Catholic Physicians' guild of New York State.

—Mrs. Charles Hayden (Phyllis McGinley), poet and author, winner of the 1961 Pulitzer Prize in American Poetry.

—The Rt. Rev. Msgr. William F. McManus, director of the Family Life Bureau of the Archdiocese of New York.

—Cyril C. Means Jr., member of the board of directors of The Association for the Study of Abortion Inc., and former law professor at Detroit College of Law and Stanford University.

—Dr. Christopher Tietze, physician and associate director of the Bio-Medical Division of the Population Council, and Lecturer in Obstetrics and Gynecology, Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Advocates of abortion-reform were heartened this year when the governor announced his intention to name a committee to make proposals for change in the law.

Last year, proponents of change tried unsuccessfully to broaden the law, which now permits abortions only when the mother's life is imperiled.

They proposed to add such grounds as when there is risk of physical or mental harm to the mother or unborn child, when a pregnancy is caused by rape or incest, or when the mother is unwed and under 13.

The bill drew strong opposition from the Roman Catholic Church and remained firmly lodged in an Assembly committee.

Less than a week after this year's legislative session opened, The Associated Press reported that reliable Senate sources were saying no substantial revision would be made this year.

In the Assembly, Speaker Anthony J. Travia has declared repeatedly his intention to see an abortion bill sent to the floor for debate and a vote.

Paltz Symphony To Play Feb. 5

The 85-member New Paltz State University College Community Symphony will present a winter concert Monday, Feb. 5, 8:30 p. m., in the college's McKenna Theater. Dr. Harry Hammer, symphony conductor, announced today.

Robert Rudie, concert violinist and Vassar College Orchestra conductor, will be the guest soloist playing Beethoven's Violin Concerto. Rudie, who has appeared all over the Northern Hemisphere in concert, was for 11 years concertmaster and assistant conductor of the Oklahoma City Symphony.

In addition to conducting the Vassar orchestra, he directs the Riverside School of Music in New York City.

The program for the concert follows: Sibelius, Finlandia; Bartok, Roumanian Dances; Bach, Concerto Gross No. 3 in G; Kodaly, Intermezzo from "Harry Janos"; and Beethoven, Violin Concerto.

Just a Dream

New Home for St. Louis Symphony

By LOWELL MCKIRGAN

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will no longer have to compete with rock 'n' roll musicians in the battles of the bands.

The symphony has a new home, a glittering palace complete with crystal chandeliers and a very proper bar salvaged from the New York Metropolitan Opera building which is now just a memory.

"It's a dream, it's just a dream," said Walter Susskind, new conductor for the orchestra. The dream becomes reality Wednesday night when the symphony presents its first concert in Powell Hall, named for Walter S. Powell whose widow provided a generous endowment for the project.

The inaugural concert at 2,689-seat Powell Symphony Hall will feature the world premiere of Gunther Schuller's "Fanfare for St. Louis," commissioned by the orchestra.

The orchestra's new home was built more than 40 years ago as a movie theater to end them all with a 70-foot domed ceiling in the auditorium, Italian marble floors, carved and gilded moldings. But its history wasn't as happy as its promise—until now.

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra Society purchased the theater two years ago for about $400,000. Renovation has cost about $2 million.

The orchestra first appeared in the theater in 1964 following remodeling work designed to regain the leadership in offering first-run movies in St. Louis. The orchestra found the acoustics to be first rate.

Plaster, paint and gold leaf are not the only ingredients in the transformation of the theater. Major alterations included installation of an acoustical shell above the stage. Construction of the shell provided room for three floors of offices in the space above the shell.

The advantages of moving into the old building include the excellent acoustics and the relatively small cost involved. Symphony officials say the concept has attracted much attention throughout the United States. It seems there are a number of elegant old movie theaters, now abandoned.

The loud-beat musicians still reign supreme at Kiel Auditorium and Opera House in downtown St. Louis.

For several years, weekend symphony programs in the opera house section of the building have been literally back-to-back with rock 'n' roll and other big beat bands in the auditorium area.

Separating the two musical groups was a thick iron curtain. It stopped everything but the big beat of the rock bands.

New Home for St. Louis Symphony

By LOWELL MCKIRGAN

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will no longer have to compete with rock 'n' roll musicians in the battles of the bands.

The symphony has a new home, a glittering palace complete with crystal chandeliers and a very proper bar salvaged from the New York Metropolitan Opera building which is now just a memory.

"It's a dream, it's just a dream," said Walter Susskind, new conductor for the orchestra. The dream becomes reality Wednesday night when the symphony presents its first concert in Powell Hall, named for Walter S. Powell whose widow provided a generous endowment for the project.

The inaugural concert at 2,689-seat Powell Symphony Hall will feature the world premiere of Gunther Schuller's "Fanfare for St. Louis," commissioned by the orchestra.

The orchestra's new home was built more than 40 years ago as a movie theater to end them all with a 70-foot domed ceiling in the auditorium, Italian marble floors, carved and gilded moldings. But its history wasn't as happy as its promise—until now.

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra Society purchased the theater two years ago for about $400,000. Renovation has cost about $2 million.

The orchestra first appeared in the theater in 1964 following remodeling work designed to regain the leadership in offering first-run movies in St. Louis. The orchestra found the acoustics to be first rate.

Plaster, paint and gold leaf are not the only ingredients in the transformation of the theater. Major alterations included installation of an acoustical shell above the stage. Construction of the shell provided room for three floors of offices in the space above the shell.

The advantages of moving into the old building include the excellent acoustics and the relatively small cost involved. Symphony officials say the concept has attracted much attention throughout the United States. It seems there are a number of elegant old movie theaters, now abandoned.

The loud-beat musicians still reign supreme at Kiel Auditorium and Opera House in downtown St. Louis.

For several years, weekend symphony programs in the opera house section of the building have been literally back-to-back with rock 'n' roll and other big beat bands in the auditorium area.

Separating the two musical groups was a thick iron curtain. It stopped everything but the big beat of the rock bands.

National Recognition Given To Local Musical Society

Mrs. Albert Sonnenberg, president of the Musical Society of Kingston, announced her organization has received recognition from the National Federation of Music Clubs for its leadership, quality of programs, and observance of National Music Week of 1967.

The Society received a Double Award of Merit.

A merit certificate was presented also to the Woman's page Editor of the Kingston Daily Freeman, Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, for her cooperation in publishing a special story on the society's work and "for exceptional news coverage of all musical events throughout the Hudson Valley."

A second certificate of merit was presented to the Kingston Consolidated School System in recognition of its outstanding musical programs.

The Society's award is the equivalent of first prize. Awards were granted in three classifications: (1) Double Award of Merit, (2) Single Award of Merit and (3) Honorable Mention.

The theme for the National Music Week Observance was "Music Is for Everyone." Objectives included the understanding and appreciation of music in the home, community, and as a common bond among all people as well as an instrument of world peace.

The society's entry was submitted in an original manner. A "newspaper" issue featured a story about the Musical Society Guest Night Program held during National Music Week, a Music Calendar of Events, listing all concerts, recitals and school programs for the month of May as well as a "What's Happening in the Arts" section. The section was complete with a variety of items including news releases, photographs and actual programs of musical events scheduled throughout the Kingston area.

To compile the information, members of the Musical Society committee contacted directors of choral groups, supervisors of music in Kingston, Saugerties, Woodstock, N. Y., the Ontario and Rondout Valley school districts, and individual persons concerned with recitals.

Members of the National Music Week Committee on the local level included, along with Mrs. Sonnenberg, the Misses Agatha Snyder, Mildred Brady and Martha Eddy.

This is the second time the Musical Society has been honored for its excellent programs during the 1967 season. The other award was presented by the New York State Federation of Music Clubs for the American Music Program given in November.

KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN'S Dorothy A. Narel, seated, woman's page editor, accepts an Award of Merit from Mrs. Albert Sonnenberg in recognition of the newspaper's "exceptional news coverage of all musical events throughout the Hudson Valley." The Award was issued by the National Federation of Music Clubs and was presented through the Musical Society of Kingston. The local music club was cited for its outstanding programs last year during National Music Week. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

National Recognition Given To Local Musical Society

Mrs. Albert Sonnenberg, president of the Musical Society of Kingston, announced her organization has received recognition from the National Federation of Music Clubs for its leadership, quality of programs, and observance of National Music Week of 1967.

The Society received a Double Award of Merit.

A merit certificate was presented also to the Woman's page Editor of the Kingston Daily Freeman, Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, for her cooperation in publishing a special story on the society's work and "for exceptional news coverage of all musical events throughout the Hudson Valley."

A second certificate of merit was presented to the Kingston Consolidated School System in recognition of its outstanding musical programs.

The Society's award is the equivalent of first prize. Awards were granted in three classifications: (1) Double Award of Merit, (2) Single Award of Merit and (3) Honorable Mention.

The theme for the National Music Week Observance was "Music Is for Everyone." Objectives included the understanding and appreciation of music in the home, community, and as a common bond among all people as well as an instrument of world peace.

The society's entry was submitted in an original manner. A "newspaper" issue featured a story about the Musical Society Guest Night Program held during National Music Week, a Music Calendar of Events, listing all concerts, recitals and school programs for the month of May as well as a "What's Happening in the Arts" section. The section was complete with a variety of items including news releases, photographs and actual programs of musical events scheduled throughout the Kingston area.

To compile the information, members of the Musical Society committee contacted directors of choral groups, supervisors of music in Kingston, Saugerties, Woodstock, N. Y., the Oteora and Rondout Valley school districts, and individual persons concerned with recitals.

Members of the National Music Week Committee on the local level included, along with Mrs. Sonnenberg, the Misses Agatha Snyder, Mildred Brady and Martha Eddy.

This is the second time the Musical Society has been honored for its excellent programs during the 1967 season. The other award was presented by the New York State Federation of Music Clubs for the American Music Program given in November.

The Right Thing to Do

By ELIZABETH L. POST
of The Emily Post Institute
Close Friend Is Sent Wedding
Invitation Regardless of Distance

Dear Mrs. Post: We are having a dinner and reception for my daughter's marriage. A close friend, whom I especially wanted to invite and who had actually planned a bake for our reception, will be out of town for the wedding. Would it be proper to send them an invitation, knowing they will not be here? I don't want it to appear as a "request for a gift."

—Mrs. Howard
Dear Mrs. Howard: Sending such a close friend an invitation could scarcely be construed as requesting a gift. She will surely want to send one anyway, and I'm sure she would be extremely hurt if she did not receive your invitation.

May Waitresses Lay Napkins on Customer's Laps?

Dear Mrs. Post: I've been a waitress for years, and have been considered very efficient and correct. Just recently I was told by a maitre d'hotel that it is very undignified for a waitress to lay the napkin across a gentleman's lap, in that it is slightly suggestive. (He said it is all right for a waitress to lay the napkin across a lady's lap.) When customers fail to put the napkin in their laps themselves, I always extend this little extra service to both men and women. Have I been committing an error all these years? If so, is it also incorrect for a waiter to lay the napkin across a lady's lap?

—Ruth
Dear Ruth: That maitre d'hotel has a peculiar mind. However, most properly, diners do this themselves. When a customer has forgotten to put his napkin in his lap, the waitress must, of course, remind him by saying "Your napkin, sir" before putting the plate down, or by handing the napkin to him to place in his own lap.

Relative of Bride Stretches Bridesmaid Age Limit

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for a married woman in her early thirties to be a bridesmaid at the wedding of her brother-in-law when the bride is 21 and the other bridesmaids will be in their late teens or early twenties? Although I have accepted, I may change my mind. What is the proper way of telling the future bride without hurt feelings?

—Mrs. R. R.
Dear Mrs. R.: Ideally, bridesmaids are more or less the same age as the bride, but a girl of 30 hardly has a foot in the grave, and since it is a relative's wedding, you could quite properly accept. If you do feel you are too old, the most tactful thing to tell the bride is the truth. She should not be hurt at your reason.

To make your wedding day perfect from start to finish, my newest booklet "Your Guide to Formal Wedding Procedure," is just what you need. To get a copy send twenty-five cents in coin to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I am a saleswoman. The other day I sold a lady six pairs of men's nylon replacement pockets. I remarked that she was going to do a lot of repair work.

Much to my surprise she said they were for her own dresses and slacks that didn't have pockets!

By opening the side seams, she sews in the pockets. Since these pockets are thin they do not alter the appearance of the dress or slacks.

I tried it on a pair of old slacks and it really worked. So nice to have a pocket in which to keep cigarettes, lighter, or what have you.

—Anne Davis

Dear Heloise:

A potato ricer is certainly a handy gadget to have around when making jam.

I also use it as a lemon squeezer, strainer, pulper, etc.

—G. Clayburg

Dear Heloise:

The price of new shades for my 40" wide windows was too much for the budget right now. However, since the rollers and sticks on the old shades were still good and my windows not real long, I bought plastic upholstery material — the 54" width — and cut it crosswise to fit the rollers.

Now I have new blinds all over the house for half the price of ready-made ones and in colors I like. I just put hems in the bottom to accommodate the lower stick (lengthen the stitch on the sewing machine and it stitches in beautifully) and I stapled the top to the roller.

—Velma Blume

They will be a breeze to clean, too. You should have been an interior decorator, Velma.

—Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Why buy the fancy racks for hanging men's ties? A towel rod on the back of a door will do beautifully.

—Reader

Dear Heloise:

I asked my 12-year-old son to roll some cracker crumbs for me today.

Since I was busy, I didn't notice until he was done that he had used a water glass for the task — one of my heavy, everyday ones with a cut glass design — and it did a very thorough job in a short time.

Children are nice to have around!

—Mrs. John Chapman

Dear Heloise:

Just had to pass this on in case others haven't thought of it.

Our poor arm chair had started showing signs of its constant use and there was no place in our budget for a new

The Country Wife

By: DOROTHY VANDORN

The 40-hour week was a milestone in the history of labor. Before it was adopted, hours in some industries were regularly 12 a day, sometimes 16, with a 54-hour week by no means uncommon.

Now even the 40 hours are looked down on: too much, too long, too demanding. Thirty-six hours, 30 hours, and downward are the modern trends. And for a routine, unrewarding, monotonous job perhaps these shorter weeks are time enough.

Some people, of course, work many more than 30 or 40 hours. We have been hearing a good deal about Dr. Christian Barnard, the surgeon who has been moving hearts around in South Africa. On TV the other night Dr. Barnard told of his training in heart surgery. A regular surgeon, he decided he "did not know enough," so he went to the University of Minnesota and proposed himself as a candidate for a degree which would give him the experience he wanted. The course of training, he was told, was six years to give it. He offered to do the work in two years and asked, if he did, whether or not he might get the required degree. The faculty was skeptical and non-committal. Impossible, they said. Couldn't be done. But Dr. Barnard did it and was awarded his degree as he had hoped.

It would indeed have been impossible if he had limited himself to a 40 hour week. So with Dr. Norman Shumway of Palo Alto, California, who has just done another heart transplant. He is described as "an early and late man."

When I got to the hospital, one of his colleagues says, "Shumway is there. When I leave he is leaving or still there."

A member of our family for years taught a full college schedule and in the evening settled down to his own work: planning, reading, writing — often until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. Since the school day for the children began at the regular time, he got up at 7 like the rest of us.

Not everybody is a heart surgeon or a writer. But perhaps we are considering the problem of the demands of a job from the wrong end. Not how much time we spend but what we do and for whom we do it. People who are self-employed work for themselves, for their families, for fame, for love of the job. Men like Dr. Barnard work for other people, for humanity; and for love of the job, too.

Maybe the answer—and we are working toward it—is for machines to do the monotonous jobs, freeing people to earn a living at something they truly find worth doing. If we ever get such a system, 10 chances to one the 40-hour week will not be required any more, or even in many cases observed.

Look Here Mrs. Homemaker

According to Louise M. Kargo, Extension Home Economist, an easy and delicious dessert made with one of New York State's most popular fruits is apple torte. Although most people think of the fall and winter months as the apple season, apples are also available during the warmer months due to controlled atmosphere storage. In this process, the fruit is refrigerated in an atmosphere that contains a very small amount of oxygen and a relatively large proportion of carbon dioxide. Apples stored in this manner maintain quality longer than those in ordinary cold storage. Most of the apples stored under these conditions in New York State are McIntosh, the principal variety of the state. However, other varieties such as Red Delicious, Jonathan, Rome Beauty, Northern Spy, and Golden Delicious may also be held successfully in this controlled atmosphere.

APPLE TORTE

Pan: 9 by 9 by 2 in.
Temperature: 350 degrees F.
Time: 30 to 35 minutes.
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups finely chopped apples
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup finely chopped nuts
1 cup sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1. Beat the eggs slightly and stir in the sugar. Add the apples, almond and vanilla extracts, and the nuts.

2. Sift together the remaining ingredients; add these dry ingredients to the apple mixture, and mix well.

The Right Thing to Do

By ELIZABETH L. POST
of The Emily Post Institute
Close Friend Is Sent Wedding
Invitation Regardless of Distance

Dear Mrs. Post: We are having a dinner and reception for my daughter's marriage. A close friend, whom I especially wanted to invite and who had actually planned a cake for our reception, will be out of town for the wedding. Would it be proper to send them an invitation, knowing they will not be here? I don't want it to appear as a "request for a gift."

—Mrs. Howard
Dear Mrs. Howard: Sending such a close friend an invitation could scarcely be construed as requesting a gift. She will surely want to send one anyway, and I'm sure she would be extremely hurt if she did not receive your invitation.

May Waitresses Lay Napkins on Customer's Laps?

Dear Mrs. Post: I've been a waitress for years, and have been considered very efficient and correct. Just recently I was told by a maitre d'hotel that it is very undignified for a waitress to lay the napkin across a gentleman's lap, in his napkin in his lap, the waitress it is slightly suggestive. (He said it is all right for a waitress to lay the napkin across a lady's lap.) When customers fail to put the napkin in their laps themselves, I always extend this little extra service to both men and women. Have I been committing an error all these years? If so, is it also incorrect for a waiter to lay the napkin across a lady's lap?

—Ruth
Dear Ruth: That maitre d'hotel has a peculiar mind. However, most properly, diners do this themselves. When a customer has forgotten to put his napkin in his lap, the waitress must, of course, remind him by saying "Your napkin, sir" before putting the plate down, or by handing the napkin to him to place in his own lap.

Relative of Bride Stretches Bridesmaid Age Limit

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for a married woman in her early thirties to be a bridesmaid at the wedding of her brother-in-law when the bride is 21 and the other bridesmaids will be in their late teens or early twenties? Although I have accepted, I may change my mind. What is the proper way of telling the future bride without hurt feelings?

—Mrs. R. R.
Dear Mrs. R.: Ideally, bridesmaids are more or less the same age as the bride, but a girl of 30 hardly has a foot in the grave, and since it is a relative's wedding, you could quite properly accept. If you do feel you are too old, the most tactful thing to tell the bride is the truth. She should not be hurt at your reason.

To make your wedding day perfect from start to finish, my newest booklet "Your Guide to Formal Wedding Procedure," is just what you need. To get a copy send twenty-five cents in coin to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: I am a saleswoman. The other day I sold a lady six pairs of men's nylon replacement pockets. I remarked that she was going to do a lot of repair work.

Much to my surprise she said they were for her own dresses and slacks that didn't have pockets!

By opening the side seams, she sews in the pockets. Since these pockets are thin they do not alter the appearance of the dress or slacks.

I tried it on a pair of old slacks and it really worked. So nice to have a pocket in which to keep cigarettes, lighter, or what have you.

—Anne Davis

Dear Heloise: A potato ricer is certainly a handy gadget to have around when making jam.

I also use it as a lemon squeezer, strainer, pulper, etc.

—G. Clayburg

Dear Heloise:

The price of new shades for my 40" wide windows was too much for the budget right now. However, since the rollers and sticks on the old shades were still good and my windows not real long, I bought plastic upholstery material — the 54" width — and cut it crosswise to fit the rollers.

Now I have new blinds all over the house for half the price of ready-made ones and in colors I like. I just put hems in the bottom to accommodate the lower stick (lengthen the stitch on the sewing machine and I stitched the top to the roller.

—Velma Blume

They will be a breeze to clean, too. You should have been an interior decorator, Velma.

—Heloise

Dear Heloise: Why buy the fancy racks for hanging men's ties? A towel rod on the back of a door will do beautifully.

—Reader

Dear Heloise: I asked my 12-year-old son to roll some cracker crumbs for me today.

Since I was busy, I didn't notice until he was done that he had used a water glass for the task — one of my heavy, everyday ones with a cut glass design — and it did a very thorough job in a short time.

Children are nice to have around!

—Mrs. John Chapman

Dear Heloise: Just had to pass this on in case others haven't thought of it.

Our poor arm chair had started showing signs of its constant use and there was no place in our budget for a new

The Country Wife

By: DOROTHY VANDORN

The 40-hour week was a milestone in the history of labor. Before it was adopted, men in some industries were regularly 12 a day, sometimes 16, with a 54-hour week by no means uncommon.

Now even the 40 hours are looked down on: too much, too long, too demanding. Thirty-six hours, 30 hours, and downward are the modern trends. And for a routine, unrewarding, monotonous job perhaps these shorter weeks are time enough.

Some people, of course, work many more than 30 or 40 hours. We have been hearing a good deal about Dr. Christian Barnard, the surgeon who has been moving hearts around in South Africa. On TV the other night Dr. Barnard told of his training in heart surgery. A regular surgeon, he decided, he "did not know enough," so he went to the University of Minnesota and proposed himself as a candidate for a degree which would give him the experience he wanted. The course of training, he was told, was six years. Dr. Barnard didn't have six years to give it. He offered to do the work in two years and asked, if he did, whether or not he might get the required degree. The faculty was skeptical and non-committal. Impossible, they said. Couldn't be done. But Dr. Barnard did it and was awarded his degree as he had hoped.

It would indeed have been impossible if he had limited himself to a 40 hour week. So with Dr. Norman Shumway of Palo Alto, California, who has just done another heart transplant. He is described as "an early and late man."

When I get to the hospital, one of his colleagues says, "Shumway is there. When I leave he is leaving or still there."

A member of our family for years taught a full college schedule and in the evening settled down to his own work: planning, reading, writing — often until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. Since the school day for the children began at the regular time, he got up at 7 like the rest of us.

Not everybody is a heart surgeon or a writer. But perhaps we are considering the problem of the demands of a job from the wrong end. Not how much time we spend but what we do and for whom we do it. People who are self-employed work for themselves, for their families, for fame, for love of the job. Men like Dr. Barnard work for other people, for humanity; and for love of the job, too.

Maybe the answer—and we are working toward it—is for machines to do the monotonous jobs, freeing people to earn a living at something they truly find worth doing. If we ever get such a system, 10 chances to one the 40-hour week will not be required any more, or even in many cases observed.

According to Louise M. Kargo, Extension Home Economist, an easy and delicious dessert made with one of New York State's most popular fruits is apple torte. In this process, the fruit is refrigerated in an atmosphere that contains a very small amount

Lions Project: Basketball Double-Header

Saugerties Lions Club scholarship committee has announced it will sponsor a "Colossal Basketball Double Header" Friday evening, Feb. 16, at Saugerties High School.

Plans for the sporting event had been formulated with the club acting in conjunction with the South Side Men's Club, who will be sponsoring their Old Timers Night the same weekend on Saturday, Feb. 17. The Lions Club program will commence at 7:30 and feature a basketball game between members of the famous Saugerties - Woodstock rivalry of several years ago. In the past the townships of Saugerties and Woodstock have carried on a rivalry which the Lions Club hopes to revive by presenting the game as the first of a basketball "double header."

Following that game at 8:30, the Saugerties Lions Club basketball squad known as Harder's Hoopsters will vie with the world famous California Cuties team. The Cuties, a team made up entirely of men dressed in women's clothing, promises to present to the Saugerties area sporting fans, a laugh provoking exhibition.

The proceeds will be used for the Lions Club merit scholarship award, which is presented each year to Saugerties High School graduates who are enrolled in institutions of higher learning. The scholarship is a continuing one with an award being presented each year as the student continues over a four-year course of academic endeavor. Advance tickets will be available from any Lions Club member.

UCCC Routs Adirondack, 148-78, for Sixteenth Win

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

There was an air of expectancy hovering over the municipal auditorium Saturday night. You could feel it as the crowd gathered for the UCCC-Adirondack basketball game.

The word was out that the powerful Senators planned to shed their Avis status and move to the Hertz plateau as the nation's No. 1 junior college team in scoring.

Joe Uhl, it was predicted, would smash to smithereens his all-time UCCC game record of 47 points.

Well, neither statistic materialized.

UCCC Routs Adirondack, 148-78, for Sixteenth Win

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

There was an air of expectancy hovering over the municipal auditorium Saturday night. You could feel it as the crowd gathered for the UCCC-Adirondack basketball game.

The word was out that the powerful Senators planned to shed their Avis status and move to the Hertz plateau as the nation's No. 1 junior college team in scoring.

Joe Uhl, it was predicted, would smash to smithereens his all-time UCCC game record of 47 points.

Well, neither statistic materialized.

Ulster crushed a willing but badly overmatched opponent, 148-78, sitting out the last 3:52 of the game, came within a point of tying his record. He swished 46 on 18 for 34 (52.9 per cent) from the field and with 10/11 from the foul line.

Hit 59 Per Cent

UCCC connected on 50 per cent of its shots (61/120) and racked up its third highest score of the season, despite a leth-

League leading Lions blanked the Jayces in the first quarter and went all the way to victory, 28-16, while Recreation out-scored Kiwanis 12-4 in the first period and hung on to win 28-20 in Biddy league basketball Saturday.

Dick Terlinger knocked in 12 tallies to lead the Lions, which were never in trouble. Duane Carey hit six for the Jayces. Ed Duffy reined five field goals into the nets to lead Recreation to victory, and Tim Ross had eight markers for Kiwanis.

Thursday night games are: Kiwanis vs. K.P.A.; and Jayces vs. Recreation.

Kentucky Windage Deserts Old George

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — George Blanda and all his teammates on the American football League's West team are $400 poorer today than they think they should be. It's all because Blanda's old Kentucky windage deserted him.

When Joe Namath of the New York Jets risked his fragile legs on a one-yard touchdown smash and put the East All-Stars ahead 25-24 in Sunday's season finale, there were 58 seconds left.

As any pro football fan knows, this was not necessarily decisive. And Len Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs used only 52 seconds to move the West to the East's 28.

This was the time to call on Blanda, 18 years a pro and the AFL's leading scorer of 1967 on his educated placekicking toe.

Back before his pro career Blanda had played at the University of Kentucky and he knew all about windage. He had missed a 29-yard field goal attempt early in the fourth quarter and took note of how the wind was blowing in the Gator Bowl.

Allow for Wind

Blanda allowed for it and booted from the 35 what could have been the winning points and the $1,000 winners' share to each West player instead of the $600 loser's share.

"It just missed by a fraction," Blanda noted as time ran out. "Actually the ball went right where I aimed it. The earlier kick I missed was carried to the right by the wind. I thought that the same thing would happen again—but it didn't."

So the glory went to Namath, who came to life in the fourth quarter and carried the East to two touchdowns, and to his top receiver Don Maynard, who was used to such pitch-and-catch connections for the New York Jets.

They shared the most valuable offensive player accolade. If sports writers had voted, uteafter the game instead of with three minutes left on the clock, they might have included Larry Garrison of the Boston Patriots in their honors.

A substitute on the East team for Woodie Campbell of Houston, who had to go on military duty, Garrison also was a substitute on the 26-yard pass play which carried to the West 10 and set up the winning touchdown.

Prime receiver George Sauer of New York was covered, so Namath threw short to Garrison, who then scampered and cut down the left sideline on as important a play as their was in the game.

The East's late comeback robbed Lee "Speedy" Duncan of the San Diego Chargers of the role as hero and left him with only the honor of being named the top defensive player. Duncan set a record on a 90-yard kickoff return which gave the West an early 7-3 edge and a lead it held until the final min-

HOUSTON (AP) — Lucius Allen's wry, impish grin split through the gloom of UCLA's dressing room.

"I just hope Houston wins the rest of their games," said the Bruin backcourt ace, "and we get to play them in the nationals."

"Yes," agreed UCLA coach John Wooden. "I'd like to play them again. They're a fine basketball team." Then, in answer to a question, the normally placid UCLA coach bristled:

No, it's not revenge," Wooden snorted. "I don't play that way. When I start playing for revenge, I'll get out of the business. As I said, they're a good team and Guy Lewis is a fine coach."

Biggest Crowd Ever

The unbeatable Bruins had just been beaten, 71-69, by Houston's second-ranked Cougars. And they'd been beaten before the largest crowd ever to see a college basketball game, 52,693, in the Astrodome Saturday night, their No. 1 ranking was almost certainly gone and their 47-game winning string was snapped 13 short of the record.

If they meet again this season, it will be in the semifinals of the national championships.

And the national championship, the semifinals and finals, will be played at Pauley Pavilion in Los Angeles, the Bruins' home court.

"Yeah, I'd real much like to play 'em again," said Allen, whose 25 points from the outside shooting kept the Bruins in the game against the inspired Cougars, now 17-0.

"Our game plan," said Houston Coach Lewis, "was to keep Lew Alcindor bottled up and cut off his passing lanes to his corner men, Lenn Shackleford and Mike Lynn."

Follows Game Time

The Cougars followed that plan perfectly, with All-American Elvin Hayes and Ken Spain taking refuge in the excuse of the injured eye which had kept him out of UCLA's two previous games.

"We were beaten by a better team," said big Lew.

Unbeaten New Mexico and St. Bonaventure kept pace with the streaking Cougars. The sixth-ranked Lobos beat Brigham Young 84-69 for their 16th victory and the No. 7 Bonnies outlasted Canisius 71-65 for a 13-0 mark.

But St. Peter's of New Jersey, only other previously unbeaten major team, bowed to St. Francis, Pa., 88-78 while three nationally-ranked powers—Tennessee, Utah and Kentucky—were brought down.

Florida shackled fourth-ranked Tennessee 59-46 and Wyoming ambushed No. 5 Utah 81-72. The Vols had won 10 of 11 previous starts; Utah, 13 of 15.

Auburn edged No. 8 Kentucky 74-73 on a pair of free throws by Tom Perry in the final minute, thwarting Adolph Rupp's bid to match the all-time career victory mark of 771 held by former Kansas Coach Phog Allen.

Rupp's Wildcats, 10-3, will attempt to bounce back tonight at Tennessee in a pivotal Southeastern Conference game.

Columbia, ranked 10th in last week's Associated Press poll, crushed Cornell 93-51 for an 11-3 mark. Third-ranked North Carolina and ninth-ranked Vanderbilt were idle over the weekend.

Passes Aided East, and Kicks Were for West

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In the voting for Back of the Game in the Pro Bowl, one ballot went to Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys.

along with a national television audience.

As often happens in all-star games with squads by necessity hastily assembled and coached, there was something less than perfection.

The rival quarterbacks, Johnny Unitas of Baltimore and Los Angeles' Roman Gabriel, for the West, and Don Meredith of Dallas and Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants, kept the action lively.

Mel Farr of the Detroit Lions executed a dazzling, diving, fingertip catch for a touchdown on a 39-yard throw from Gabriel. Tarkenton, reverting to rambling, scrambling Fran, uncorked a throw aimed at Washington's Jerry Smith. But Chicago's Richie Petitbone for the West hauled it in on his own 30 and rushed it back 70 yards for a touchdown.

80-Yard Drive

There was an 80-yard East march to a touchdown that had its oddities. On a fourth and four in midfield, Hayes punted into the end zone.

But officials said the West had 12 guys on the field, it was penalized and the drive continued.

The West coaches even today have not figured who, if there was one, the 12th man was.

Moments later Meredith passed and Green Bay's Willie Wood stepped in for an interception. Instead, he tipped it up in the air and it dropped into the hands of the surprised Hayes on the seven.

Things like this make All-Star games entertaining. After a long season, who needs perfection?

EAST RUNNING BACK — Leroy Jones (44-Browns) just makes it through the line and is picked up by West Defensive back Lem Barney (partially hidden, L-Lions), who hooks a leg and Linebacker Dave Robinson (back-Packers) who brings him down. East tore up the West 38-20. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Cazzie Was Winner Over Bing at Last

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT (AP) — A couple of years ago the New York Knicks won a coin toss from the Detroit Pistons and made Cazzie Russell their NO. 1 choice in the National Basketball Association player draft.

The Pistons fended off the grumblings of their fans and selected Dave Bing of Syracuse, saying he was no Cazzie Russell, but a pretty fair player from out East somewhere.

The Pistons may have actually got the better deal, but Russell proved his value to the Knicks with a record-shattering 42-point performance Sunday that gave the Knicks a 115-103 victory over Detroit.

Russell was the darling of the midwest as an All-America who led Michigan to two consecutive Big Ten titles and sparked a revival in Wolverine basketball that led to the building of a new $7.2 million basketball arena at nearby Ann Arbor.

Cazzie's 42 points Sunday were an NBA career high for him.

Russell rallied the Knicks from a 52-48 halftime deficit, hitting 17 points in the third quarter and 18 in the fourth, to pull out the victory. The 35 second half points were an arena record, surpassing the 33 by Wilt Chamberlain Jan. 17, 1962. Russell's 42 points surpassed his previous single game NBA high of 34 against Baltimore Nov. 22, 1966.

Detroit, suffering its second straight loss, had taken a four-point halftime lead, mostly on the shooting of Bing, who had 18 points. The NBA's leading scorer was held to two points in the second half as Russell caught fire. Eddie Miles topped Detroit with 25 points.

In other NBA action Sunday, St. Louis beat Chicago 98-90, Boston beat San Diego 139-112 and Los Angeles rapped Seattle 154-123.

In the American Basketball Association, Dallas beat New Jersey 107-97, Minnesota took Indiana 103-88 and Denver walloped Anaheim 112-85. On Saturday, Baltimore edged Boston 118-115. Los Angeles crushed San Francisco 151-120. Cincinnati beat Detroit 128-120. St. Louis took Seattle 120-115 and Philadelphia topped Chicago 135-111.

Zelmo Beaty scored 25 of his points in the second half, Howell led the Celtics with 31 points and John Havlicek throwing in 29. Don Kojis scored 22 for San Diego.

Elgin Baylor scored 29 points and Jerry West had 25 in Los Angeles' romp over Seattle. It points at the start of the fourth period, broke away with Don Nelson scoring 10 points. Bailey over 150 points.

HOUSTON (AP) — Lucius Allen's wry, impish grin split through the gloom of UCLA's dressing room.

"I just hope Houston wins the rest of their games," said the Bruin backcourt ace, "and we get to play them in the nationals."

The Cougars followed that plan perfectly, with All-Ameri-

Hayes, a 6-foot-8 standout who played, by his own testimony "my best game ever," finished with 39 points, 15 rebounds, four assists and three blocked shots on Alcindor.

A mix-up in signals, on which Bruins Mike Warren tipped a pass out of bounds, killed UCLA's final chance with 12 seconds left.

Alcindor, obviously below par with only 15 points, refused to take refuge in the excuse of the injured eye which had kept him out of UCLA's two previous games.

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In the voting for Back of the Game in the Pro Bowl, one ballot went to Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys.

The voter said the explanation was simple: "Hayes starred for both teams."

It was hard to argue against the theory. Playing for the East in Sunday's National Football League All-Star affair, Bullet Bob caught six passes for 84 yards, the longest for 45 which set up an East touchdown.

Hayes also punted for the East which proved invaluable for the West. His first boot was high enough but it only traveled six yards.

Bob improved on the next one. It sailed up and out 14 yards.

Each time the West cashed in for touchdowns. Hayes, it must be hastily noted, can't be faulted. He hadn't booted a football since he played in high school until he was pressed into punting service in practice for the Pro Bowl.

Coach Otto Graham wanted to use the New York Giants' kicker, Ernie Koy, but Koy came up with a bad ankle. Hayes in practice was the best on the squad.

West Won, 38-20

The West defeated the East, 38-20, in what must be described as a fun game, at least for the 53,289 who saw it in person, along with a national television audience.

As often happens in all-star games with squads by necessity hastily assembled and coached, there was something less than perfection.

Prime receiver George Sauer of New York was covered, so Namath threw short to Garrison, who then scampered and cut down the left sideline on as important a play as their was in the game.

The East's late comeback robbed Lee "Speedy" Duncan of the San Diego Chargers of the role as hero and left him with only the honor of being named the top defensive player. Duncan set a record on a 90-yard kickoff return which gave the West an early 7-3 edge and a lead it held until the final minute.

Howard Blasts 299 In Catskill League

Dick Howard, a 42-year-old bowling star who has been knocking down pins for 25 years, missed a perfect "300" because a stubborn 4-pin in the Catskill Major Classic.

Howard fired 11 straight pocket shots for strikes in the fourth game of a 4-game set. He slammed the 12th ball deep into the 1-3 pocket but it was "too strong" in bowling parlance and left the 4 standing.

Howard will receive a 299 gold ring from the American Bowling Congress since the score was rolled in a sanctioned league.

Going into the session, Howard was averaging 188 for the King's Diner squad. His four-game total was 916. After a 167 opener, Howard fashioned a 749 trio of games of 226, 224 and the 299.

Third Shutout For Rog Crozier

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While Detroit's Roger Crozier gives hockey's hardest job another nervous whirl, Toronto's Bruce Gamble is turning the same demanding task into a joyride.

Crozier, the former All-Star goaltender who quit the National Hockey League two months ago because of the pressures involved in playing his position, returned to the Detroit nets Sunday night—and dropped a 2-0 verdict to goalie Gamble and the streaking Maple Leafs.

It was the third shutout of the season for Gamble, who sparked the Leafs in last Wednesday's 4-3 victory over the NHL All-Stars and blanked Minnesota until the final minute in a 5-1 triumph Saturday night.

The 29-year-old goalie, who started the season as veteran Johnny Bower's back-up man, capped his busy week by kicking out 40 Detroit shots.

Boston's Gerry Cheevers and Oakland's Charlie Hodge also came up with flawless goaltending performances as the explosive Bruins smashed Chicago 6-0 and the struggling Seals stymied Los Angeles 3-0.

Elsewhere, Minnesota edged Pittsburgh 4-3, breaking a four-game losing streak, and Philadelphia battled St. Louis to a 2-2 deadlock.

In Saturday's other games, Montreal trimmed Chicago 3-1, Boston topped Philadelphia 4-2, Pittsburgh stunned Detroit 8-5 and New York blanked Oakland 3-0.

Dutchess OEO Group to Meet

The January meeting of the board of directors of the Dutchess County Committee for Economic Opportunity will be held on Thursday in the East Lounge of Dutchess Hall, Dutchess Community College, Robert McKinney will preside.

A draft of the overall program proposal for 1968 will be reviewed, and the 1968 Day Care proposal will be submitted for approval.

The relationship between DCECO and the Hudson Valley Opportunities Industrialization Center and between DCECO and the Model Cities program will be discussed.

A housing committee made up of rural residents and clergy met at the Dover Care Center, Dover Plains, recently to discuss the need for adequate housing at Wassaic and Harlem Valley state institutions. Arrangements for the meeting were made by Augustus C. Rhodes, director of the Rural Opportunity Center, Millbrook.

Those attending were Lloyd Hale, business manager at the Harlem Valley State Hospital; John H. Whiteford, Wassaic; the Rev. Robert Wonstall, Presbyterian Church, Amenia; the Rev. Malcolm Sawtelle, Grace Church, Millbrook; Hamilton Fish Jr.; Robert Gunther, and Harry Bly, councilman from the Town of Amenia.

The need for housing exists in the vicinity of both institutions where there are approximately 900 job openings which cannot be filled at present. One basic reason for the unfilled positions is lack of adequate housing, according to Hale. He said approximately $4 million of added payroll would be spent in the area if housing were available.

Robert Foley, business manager at Wassaic State School, was absent from the county and unable to attend.

Dear Abby

Have Communication Gap

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Every day my husband picks up your column and says, "Well, let's see what Abby has to say to those nutty people who write to a newspaper psychiatrist!" He would never admit that HE could use some help.

My husband is a good provider and generally a good husband, but he is a very poor father to our six children, who range from 3 to 12. He never pays them the slightest attention unless it's to punish them. When a male friend comes over here, the children compete for his attention and the man can't get the little ones off his lap. I am worried about how this will affect the children's lives. Will my girls be so hungry for male attention and approval that they'll be pregnant at 15? And will my sons grow up to be Mamma's boys? What can I do before it's too late? Or am I being silly?

Perhaps these mothers should begin by looking at their own code of ethics. It is important to children, especially teenagers, to feel that they are individuals with privacy and rights of their own. Having a mother who comes snooping around reading personal mail and examining private possessions will surely force the child to become deceptive and secretive and constantly on the defensive, rather than to feel free to discuss personal problems and share private experiences with her mother.

If a mother feels it is necessary for her to know everything that happens in her child's life, she should teach the child early to trust her and come to her and share her feelings openly. This way the mother can express feelings of her own, and perhaps point the child in the right direction without promoting the kind of mistrust and tension that develops between mother and daughter when the daughter finds she has no privacy and the mother finds her only link with her daughter is thru whatever tidbits she can find "while straightening the room."

DEAR ABBY: Please don't laugh, but where can I buy a foam rubber fanny? I have heard that there are such things, but I have never seen one anywhere nor have I ever seen them advertised, have you?

I once asked a saleswoman who sold falsies and padded bras in a department store and she looked at me like she thought I was crazy. I would really appreciate your help, Abby. Thank you.

DEAR FLAT: Maybe I'm behind times, but I've never heard of such an item. However, if it exists and the manufacturers fill me in, I'll be glad to fill you out.

TRUSTED IN ALBUQUERQUE
Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: It disgusts me to read the letters in your column that begin, "While straightening my daughter's room I came across one of her letters, or her diary, and after reading it, I was horrified. Where have I failed?"

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Oswald: "We have commented on the statement by the late Commander Winfield Liggett that he wouldn't care about anything else if he could only make the right opening lead on every occasion."

Jim: "Bridge will never be an exact science, and the opening lead is the one place where you need luck if you want to win."

Oswald: "You can help your own luck if you use common sense in choosing the suit and the specific card you put on the table. Today's hand is a good example."

Jim: "A spade lead will set declarer one trick. A diamond lead will give him an over-trick. Any other lead will allow him to make his contract right on the nose."

Oswald: "It makes no difference which spade you open this time, but the standard lead from an unbid three card suit headed by an honor is the lowest card."

Jim: "It may look like pure luck to find that the spade lead succeeds while the more natural lead fails, but a consensus of experts would pick the spade lead almost unanimously."

Oswald: "The theory is that when you have to make a blind lead against no-trump from a bad hand you try to find your partner's strength."

A Superior Suspense Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Mission: Impossible" is certainly one of network television's superior suspense series, but the calm and righteous manner in which the superagents commit all manner of misdemeanors and felonies is one of its most fascinating aspects.

Of course, the intrepid agents are always on the right side. But still there's an old TV axiom, backed up by its code, that insists that crime does not pay. In Sunday night's episode — which was most entertaining, by the way — the agents specialized in elaborate cheating at cards and carefully arranged to have a homicide committed.

It seems that a bad guy had a 14-carat emerald to which was attached a top secret message that some other bad guys wanted.

Unusual Precision

The "Mission: Impossible" team, with its usual precision, made an elaborate plan that included a wildly complicated electronic device for cheating at poker.

The good guys, of course, won the poker game and the emerald along with it. Then by another elaborate stratagem, they persuaded one of the bad guys to knock off his colleague.

The whole approach of the series is different from anything else on the air. Where the police and private eye shows feature detection work and occasional fights, and the secret agent shows go in for derring-do and frequent fights, "Mission: Impossible" builds its suspense around a meticulous plan. The action comes almost casually along the way.

It should be added, too, that the regulars in the show are all excellent performers, the production is handsome and the scripts, generally, are very good.

Why We Say--

"GIVE HIM THE SLIP"

FROM SAILING: When we say that we are going to "give someone the slip," we are preparing to elude them. The expression started in sailing when ships were anchored in the harbor by a line slipped through a harbor pipe. If the ship wanted to leave port unnoticed, the captain would get the anchor by slipping out the cable and letting it lie there.

Friday night, a special program, was an interesting demonstration of patching together an assortment of subjects into an attention-holding 60 minutes. We saw something of the raising of thoroughbreds, the training of police horses, the techniques of pulling off a stagecoach wreck for a western movie, a champion rodeo rider on a bucking horse and even an English steeplechase.

Lorne Greene of "Bonanza" — and who knows more about horses than a Cartwright — narrated in his best platform style.

Ike Included

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will be among the 19 leaders of the party who will appear on CBS' "State of the Union: A Republican View" on Tuesday night. The others will be members of the Senate and House of Representatives. Sen. George Murphy of California will be moderator. The former president will appear on film taken at his winter home in Palm Desert, Calif.

A Superior Suspense Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Mission: Impossible" is certainly one of network television's superior suspense series, but the calm and righteous manner in which the superagents commit all manner of misdemeanors and felonies is one of its most fascinating aspects.

Of course, the intrepid agents are always on the right side. But still there's an old TV axiom, backed up by its code, that insists that crime does not pay. In Sunday night's episode — which was most entertaining, by the way — the agents specialized in elaborate cheating at cards and carefully arranged to have a homicide committed.

It seems that a bad guy had a 14-carat emerald to which was attached a top secret message that some other bad guys wanted.

Unusual Precision

The "Mission: Impossible" team, with its usual precision, made an elaborate plan that included a wildly complicated electronic device for cheating at poker.

The good guys, of course, won the poker game and the emerald along with it. Then by another elaborate stratagem, they persuaded one of the bad guys to knock off his colleague.

The whole approach of the series is different from anything else on the air. Where the police and private eye shows feature detection work and occasional fights, and the secret agent shows go in for derring-do and frequent fights, "Mission: Impossible" builds its suspense around a meticulous plan. The action comes almost casually along the way.

It should be added, too, that the regulars in the show are all excellent performers, the production is handsome and the scripts, generally, are very good.

Why We Say--

"GIVE HIM THE SLIP"

FROM SAILING: When we say that we are going to "give someone the slip," we are preparing to elude them. The expression started in sailing when ships were anchored in the harbor by a line slipped through a hawse pipe. If the ship wanted to leave port unnoticed, the captain would get past the anchor by slipping out the cable and letting it lie there.

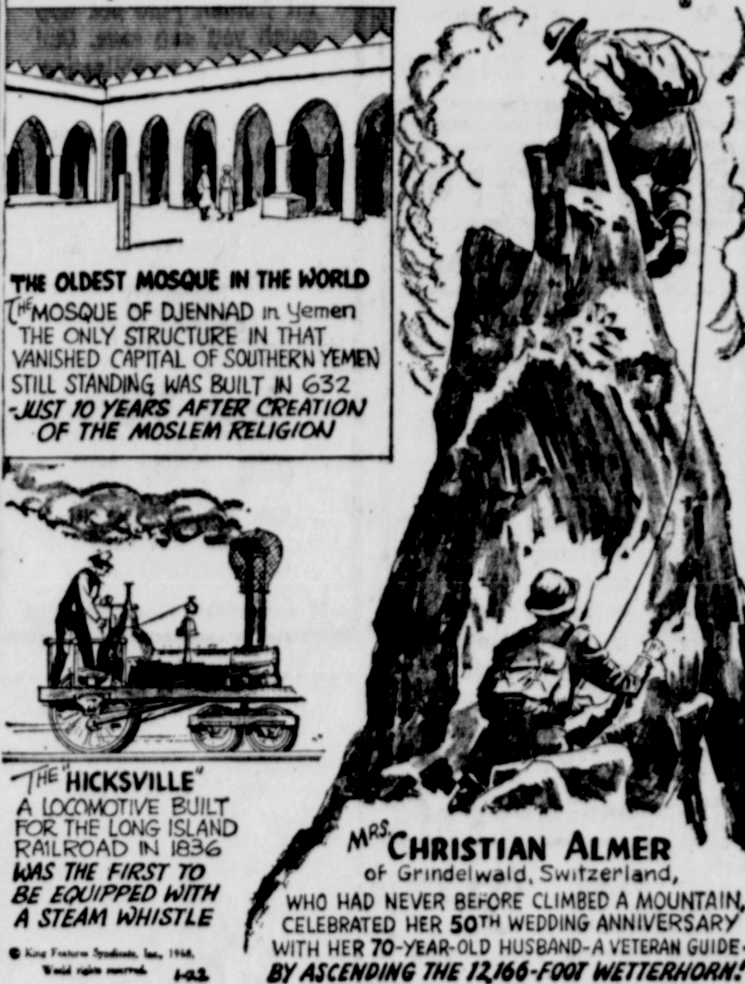

Friday night, a special program, was an interesting demonstration of patching together an attention-holding 60 minutes. We saw something of the raising of thoroughbreds, the training of police horses, the techniques of pulling off a stagecoach wreck for a western movie, a champion rodeo rider on a bucking horse and even an English steeplechase.

Lorne Greene of "Bonanza" — and who knows more about horses than a Cartwright — narrated in his best platform style.

The former president will appear on film taken at his winter home in Palm Desert, Calif.

Khe Sanh Abandoned Under Red Pressure

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese defenders abandoned the town of Khe Sanh under pressure of North Vietnamese army regulars to day and several thousand civilians fled for their lives.

About two dozen U.S. Marines and 40 South Vietnamese militiamen pulled out of the town in South Vietnam's threatened northwest corner after repeated weekend attacks by a force estimated to number 600 North Vietnamese.

Spread Too Thin
Marine commanders said the decision for the withdrawal was made because of the danger that the North Vietnamese could overrun the town at any time. The commanders added that 3,000 Marines based at the Khe Sanh combat camp two miles outside the town were spread too thin to provide reinforcements.

After the weekend attacks in the Khe Sanh area, the enemy let up today but continued to lob mortar rounds into U.S. and South Vietnamese positions. Waves of B52 bombers pounded suspected enemy positions in the Khe Sanh Valley area.

Khe Sanh is seven miles east of the Laotian border and 16 miles south of the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams. U.S. officials said the North Vietnamese were striking from staging bases in Communist-held territory in Laos in hopes of scoring a spectacular military victory for propaganda purposes.

Associated Press correspondent Robert D. Ohman reported from Khe Sanh residents of the town were streaming into the Marine combat camp in the valley with their pots, pans and bundles of belongings. They were forced to dive into trenches on several occasions when enemy mortar rounds fell. The refugees were being airlifted to Da Nang on the coast.

In other actions, waves of big U.S. Air Force B52 bombers pounded suspected North Vietnamese positions in the embattled Khe Sanh Valley Monday as fighting died down to only a few rounds of enemy mortar fire.

Strike Four Times

The huge eight-engine Stratofortresses struck four times in 24 hours around the big U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh that guards the northwest approaches from the demilitarized zone and Laos into South Vietnam.

The bombers dropped their loads of up to 50,000 pounds of explosives each on suspected North Vietnamese troop concentrations, staging and storage areas in a wide area ranging from three miles southeast of Khe Sanh to 15 miles north of the base.

In addition, Air Force, Marine and Navy fighter-bombers flew more than 50 strikes Sunday in support of hard-pressed allied forces who for two days beat off brutal mortar, artillery and ground assaults.

Military officials ordered newsmen to stay away from the area. But one who did get a glimpse of the main Khe Sanh base, Associated Press photographer Dang Van Phuoc, said Communist rockets left some Marine bunkers and huts in rubble and smoke blanketed the entire camp. The allied stronghold guards the northwest approaches to South Vietnam from Laos, where the North Vietnamese troops are believed to group up.

U.S. officers in Saigon and Da Nang reported 15 Marines killed and 65 wounded in the fighting Saturday and Sunday. The South Vietnamese command said 12 militiamen were killed and 25 wounded in repulsing an attack on Huong Hoa, a district headquarters four miles southwest of Khe Sanh.

103 Reds Killed
U.S. officers said the Marines killed 103 North Vietnamese, while the militiamen at Huong Hoa reported 45 of the enemy killed.

Just before fighting tapered off, a Marine A4 Skyhawk was shot down by North Vietnamese ground fire while dive-bombing enemy positions 2½ miles northwest of Khe Sanh. The pilot bailed out and was rescued. It was the 225th U.S. plane downed in combat over the South.

The North Vietnamese offensive began Saturday when enemy rockets crashed through the fog into the Khe Sanh base. Several Leathernecks were leveled and two Marine helicopters were damaged on the ground.

Military men said they believe a pause is being weighed by the White House with the approach of the Vietnamese Tet, or lunar new year holiday which this year begins Jan. 30. Last year air attacks were stopped during the traditional holiday period.

The Viet Cong already have proclaimed their intention to observe a seven-day Tet cease-fire in South Vietnam. The Saigon government says it will go along with a 36-hour truce. Saigon sources said U.S. concurrence in the shortened period came directly from the White House.

Countdown Ticking

Lunar Module Scheduled Today

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The countdown ticked today toward an afternoon launching of America's first Lunar Module, an ungainly-looking space ship which next year may ferry U.S. astronauts to the moon.

A powerful, 18-story-tall Saturn 1 rocket was scheduled to blast the unmanned 16-ton vehicle into earth orbit. There it is to undertake a series of exacting tests to determine whether it is designed properly for the critical job of landing astronauts on the moon and lifting them off.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration designated the mission Apollo 5.

The flight revives memories of the tragic fire that killed three astronauts during a ground test on an adjoining launch pad a year ago this week. The Saturn 1 is the same one on which the Apollo 1 spacecraft was perched when it was swept by the deadly flames last Jan. 27.

Success would be a fitting memorial to the three astronauts who were to have flown the rocket and would be another big step back on the long road to recovery from the fire.

The Lunar Module, shaped like a fat bug with antennae for feelers and portholes for eyes, faced its most critical tasks late in the planned 6½-hour mission. That's when its two main engines—descent and ascent—were to ignite to simulate lunar operations in the space vacuum.

On a lunar landing mission, three astronauts will ride into orbit about the moon in the main Apollo spacecraft. Two of the spacemen then will transfer to an attached Lunar Module, detach it and fly down to the moon's surface.

The Apollo 5 flight plan called for these engine firings, with the first to occur four hours into the flight. Two descent engine burns, one to simulate the start of the drop to the moon, the second of variable thrust to simulate throttling of the engine during the descent.

Two ascent engine burns, one to simulate an emergency situation in which the astronauts decide to fly back to the main Apollo ship without landing, and the second to simulate a blastoff from the moon.

At the controls will be a computer-controlled programmer which flight officials have dubbed a mechanical boy.

There was no plan to recover the Lunar Module from space. William C. Schneider, Apollo mission director, termed the test a difficult one.

Lindsay Credits Probe to Firing

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay says the evidence uncovered by his investigation commissioner led to the firing of former Water Commissioner James L. Marcus, indicted in two separate kickback scandals.

All on Own
"Commissioner (Arnold G.) Fraiman alone developed enough evidence to advise me to fire him (Marcus)," Lindsay said Sunday.

Marcus was indicted by a federal grand jury with five others in a $40,000 kickback case. Marcus also was charged with accepting money from S. T. Grand, Inc., which won an "emergency contract" to clean out a city reservoir.

Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan has charged Marcus in another case involving kickbacks. Lindsay told a television audience on his WNEW-TV show "With Mayor Lindsay" that Fraiman is "under instruction from me to pursue down to the last thread any innuendo of wrong-doing in city departments."

Checking Others
Fraiman said he was checking out the backgrounds of city commissioners "very carefully." He said he also was checking contracts with firms doing business with the city "for over 20 years."

Fraiman said, however, that caution should be used to check out the finances and connections of potential top-level city employees because such inquiries "might scare away potential good men from coming into city government."

RFK: New Call To Halt Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has called anew for a halt to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam—a halt military sources contend Hanoi would use for a massive resupply operation.

Kennedy, the New York Democrat who has opposed aspects of President Johnson's Vietnam policy, said Sunday the United States should halt the bombing in an effort to spur peace talks.

Pentagon sources reported meanwhile military officials are gathering evidence from U.S. reconnaissance flights that they say suggests North Vietnam plans to take advantage of even a brief pause in the bombing to resupply hard-pressed units in South Vietnam.

McGee Opposes

While Kennedy urged a halt in bombing, Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., opposed it and argued: "We don't dare to go to any conference table strictly on a fishing expedition. That is totally irresponsible."

His comment referred to Ken-edy's statement that recent peace feelers by North Vietnam represent "an opening." I think we have to accept that," Kennedy specifically mentioned an assertion by Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh that Hanoi will talk if U.S. bombing and other acts of "aggression" are stopped.

Johnson's State of the Union pledge that bombing would stop if North Vietnam agreed not to take military advantage of the pause was rejected as "insolent" Sunday by the official North Vietnamese newspaper Nhan Dan.

Another critic of Johnson's policies, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said a "negotiated settlement" remains the only way to end the war. And Michigan Gov. George Romney, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said the United States should not be "stiff-necked" about pursuing North Vietnam's latest hint of peace talks.

Kennedy and McGee appeared on a special CBS television program, Fulbright on NBC's "Meet the Press" and Romney on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Military men said they believe a pause is being weighed by the White House with the approach of the Vietnamese Tet, or lunar new year holiday which this year begins Jan. 30.

Last year air attacks were stopped during the traditional holiday period.

The Viet Cong already have proclaimed their intention to observe a seven-day Tet cease-fire in South Vietnam. The Saigon government says it will go along with a 36-hour truce. Saigon sources said U.S. concurrence in the shortened period came directly from the White House.

Khe Sanh Abandoned Under Red Pressure

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese defenders abandoned the town of Khe Sanh under pressure of North Vietnamese army regulars today and several thousand civilians fled for their lives.

About two dozen U.S. Marines and 40 South Vietnamese militiamen pulled out of the town in South Vietnam's threatened southwest corner after repeated weekend attacks by a force estimated to number 600 North Vietnamese.

Spread Too Thin
Marine commanders said the decision for the withdrawal was made because of the danger that the North Vietnamese could overrun the town at any time. The commanders added that 3,000 Marines based at the Khe Sanh combat camp, two miles outside the town were spread too thin to provide reinforcements.

After the weekend attacks in the Khe Sanh area, the enemy let up today but continued to lob mortar rounds into U.S. and South Vietnamese positions. Waves of B52 bombers pounded suspected enemy positions in the Khe Sanh Valley area.

Khe Sanh is seven miles east of the Laotian border and 16 miles south of the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams. U.S. officials said the North Vietnamese were striking from staging bases in Communist-held territory in Laos in hopes of scoring a spectacular military victory for propaganda purposes.

Associated Press correspondent Robert D. Ohman reported from Khe Sanh residents of the town were streaming into the Marine combat camp in the valley with their pots, pans and bundles of belongings. They were forced to dive into trenches on several occasions when enemy mortar rounds fell. The refugees were being airlifted to Da Nang on the coast.

RFK: New Call To Halt Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has called anew for a halt to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam—a halt military sources contend Hanoi would use for a massive resupply operation.

Kennedy, the New York Democrat who has opposed aspects of President Johnson's Vietnam policy, said Sunday the United States should halt the bombing in an effort to spur peace talks.

Pentagon sources reported meanwhile military officers are gathering evidence from U.S. reconnaissance flights that they say suggests North Vietnam plans to take advantage of even a brief pause in the bombing to resupply hard-pressed units in South Vietnam.

McGee Opposes
While Kennedy urged a halt in bombing, Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., opposed it and argued: "We don't dare to go to any conference table strictly on a fishing expedition. That is totally irresponsible."

His comment referred to Kennedy's statement that recent peace feelers by North Vietnam represent "an opening—I think we have to accept that." Kennedy specifically mentioned an assertion by Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh that Hanoi will talk if U.S. bombing and other acts of "aggression" are stopped.

Johnson's State of the Union pledge that bombing would stop if North Vietnam agreed not to take military advantage of the pause was rejected as "insolent" Sunday by the official North Vietnamese newspaper Nhan Dan.

Another critic of Johnson's policies, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said a "negotiated settlement" remains the only way to end the war. And Michigan Gov. George Romney, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said the United States should not be "stiff-necked" about pursuing North Vietnam's latest hint of peace talks.

Kennedy and McGee appeared on a special CBS television program, Fulbright on NBC's "Meet the Press" and Romney on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Military men said they believe a pause is being weighed by the White House with the approach of the Vietnamese Tet, or lunar new year holiday which this year begins Jan. 30.

Last year air attacks were stopped during the traditional holiday period.

The Viet Cong already have proclaimed their intention to observe a seven-day Tet cease-fire in South Vietnam. The Saigon government says it will go along with a 36-hour truce. Saigon sources said U.S. concurrence in the shortened period came directly from the White House.

GURU AND A ROSE — Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, guru or religious mentor of the singing Beatles, leaves the United Nations with some followers. The guru cited the spiritual understanding of Secretary General U Thant to whom he had presented a red rose, symbolizing life, and a plan for world peace meditation. After their meeting, Thant spoke highly of the guru's outlook and promised to look into his program of "transcendental meditation." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Countdown Ticking Lunar Module Scheduled Today

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The countdown ticked today toward an afternoon launching of America's first Lunar Module, an ungainly-looking space ship which next year may ferry U.S. astronauts to the moon.

A powerful, 18-story-tall Saturn 1 rocket was scheduled to blast the unmanned 16-ton vehicle into earth orbit. There it is to undertake a series of exacting tests to determine whether it is designed properly for the critical job of landing astronauts on the moon and lifting them off.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration designated the mission Apollo 5.

The flight revives memories of the tragic fire that killed three astronauts during a ground test on an adjoining launch pad a year ago this week. The Saturn 1 is the same one on which the Apollo 1 spacecraft was perched when it was swept by the deadly flames last Jan. 27.

Success would be a fitting memory to the three astronauts who were to have flown the rocket and would be another big step back on the long road to recovery from the fire.

Lindsay Credits Probe to Firing

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay says the evidence uncovered by his investigation commissioner led to the firing of former Water Commissioner James L. Marcus, indicted in two separate kickback scandals.

All on Own
"Commissioner (Arnold G.) Fraiman alone developed enough evidence to advise me to fire him (Marcus)," Lindsay said Sunday.

Marcus was indicted by a federal grand jury with five others in a $40,000 kickback case. Marcus also was charged with accepting money from S. T. Grand, Inc., which won an "emergency contract" to clean out a city reservoir.

Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan has charged Marcus in another case involving kickbacks.

Lindsay told a television audience on his WNEW-TV show "With Mayor Lindsay" that Fraiman is "under instruction from me to pursue down to the last thread any innuendo of wrong-doing in city departments."

Checking Others
Fraiman said he was checking out the backgrounds of city commissioners "very carefully." He said he also was checking contracts with firms doing business with the city "for over 20 years."

Fraiman said, however, that caution should be used to check out the finances and connections of potential top-level city employees because such inquiries "might scare away potential good men from coming into city government."
